Rumors Persist Indochina Cease-Fire Accord Near

Basic Issues Unsolved, Peace Table Reds Say

Reports persisted today that a cease-fire agreement in the Vietnam War might be near. The Communist delegations to the Paris peace talks said conditions for peace were at hand but that basic issues remained unsolved.

"Rumors are rumors, but bombs are bombs," said Ly Van Sau, the Viet Cong spokesman in Paris.

U.S. Presidential Adviser Henry A. Kissinger today ended five days of talks with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu in Saigon and flew back to Washington to report to President Nixon. The U.S. embassy would say only that the talks "made progress."

Some South Vietnamese government sources said Thieu and Kissinger had reached an agreement in principle for an Indochina cease-fire before the U.S. presidential elections 15 days away, but neither Kissinger nor the embassy would comment on these reports.

Indications in Saigon and Paris were that the chief obstacle to an immediate agreement was Thieu's opposition to a coalition government that would include the Communists. There were no official statements on this because of the secrecy of the Thieu-Kissinger talks, but the government controlled Saigon Radio and Television repeated previous Thieu speeches opposing a coalition with the Communists.

The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese Paris delegations, in telephone interviews with UPI correspondent George Sibera, repeated the Communist position: "more than ever, Thieu must go." Both delegations said Thieu was blocking plans for a South Vietnamese government "of national accord"—one that would include the Communists.

The Communist statements coincided with the publication of bold French newspaper headlines predicting an early cease-fire and peace agreement.

"Vietnam on the verge of Peace," said 1.3 million circulation France-Soir. The paper's Saigon correspondent said an agreement in principle on a cease-fire throughout Indochina would be announced before Nov. 1 but that all the problems have not been settled yet.

The 500,000 circulation conservative newspaper Figaro said an agreement on a cease-fire, a provisional Saigon regime and the return of U.S. prisoners of war is reportedly agreed, and that France would help guarantee free Vietnamese elections.

Hanoi spokesman Nguyen Thanh Le and Viet Cong spokesman Ly Van Sau agreed that conditions for peace were at hand but said "Until this day, the Vietnamese problem has not been solved. The war is being prolonged and intensified."

Le said, "the question is whether the Nixon administration really wishes to have serious negotiations or is indulging in maneuvers aimed at misleading public opinion."

Two major U.S. news magazines reported Sunday that the United States and North Vietnam have reached agreement on a Vietnam peace settlement. And statements by Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma of Laos and Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn, head of the Thai Government, said that a peace settlement might be near.

Kissinger remained silent as he has throughout the secret talks in Paris and Saigon. "I'm not going to say anything," Kissinger told newsmen at Saigon airport before his presidential jet left at 3:15 a.m. EDT for Washington.

The embassy spokesman would not elaborate on the substance of the Kissinger-Thieu discussions. "Talks will continue between us and the government of Vietnam. It is not in the interests of the negotiations to be more specific at this time," he said.

Time Magazine reported in this week's edition that the United States and North Vietnam have reached a peace agreement under which Thieu would stay in office until a committee of Saigon and Communist representatives replaces him with a caretaker government. Newsweek Magazine said the peace accord— which includes an immediate cease-fire, release of all prisoners of war and formation of an interim coalition government until national elections—would be overseen by France "acting as a neutral supervisory power."

Informed South Vietnamese government sources in Saigon said today that Thieu, after five days of talks with Kissinger, had agreed to a cease-fire prior to the Nov. 7 U.S. presidential elections. The sources said Thieu also agreed at least to discuss a coalition government demanded by the Communists— a concession viewed as significant progress in that he has adamantly opposed a coalition in the past, proposing instead to step down after a cease-fire and call national elections a month later.

Time said the peace agreement carries with it a major Communist concession: "Hanoi has agreed to negotiate directly with the Thieu government while the South Vietnamese president is still in power, which it had said that it would never do." The magazine said this provision "meets the demand of President Nixon that he not participate in the downfall of Thieu, whom Nixon promised never to abandon."

Newsweek said under the agreement, France in its neutral capacity would guarantee an honest national election in South Vietnam following a cease-fire and a short-lived interim government to be followed by national constituent

Delay In Highway Widening Feared

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Failure by Congress to appropriate federal highway funds before it adjourned probably will set back widening of a portion of Highway 101 for at least a year, state Division of Highways officials have announced.

James A. Moe, state public works director, Thursday halted bidding on all new state highway projects until he and his aides can decide priorities on the jobs for which there will be money.

Robert Halligan, district public information officer for the division of highways, said the planned $2 million widening of Highway 101 to eight lanes between the Richardson Bay Bridge and Greenbrae almost certainly would be delayed. It had been scheduled to go to bid in January 1973.

A second Marin County project, minor improvements to Shoreline Highway between Panoramic Highway and Stinson Beach, "will go," Halligan said. Cost estimate on the project is $200,000; it is to go to bid in February.

Moe called the congressional inaction "extremely serious."

"Of the $120 million planned for advertising between now and December 31, $110 million in construction advertising must be curtailed," Moe said in a prepared statement.

He said the state had planned to advertise an additional $110 million in construction projects during the first quarter of next year.

"However, if no federal aid highway bill is forthcoming by April of next year, $90 million of that amount must also be deferred," Moe said.

Congress adjourned without enacting a $6 billion bill containing a compromise one-year extension of federal highway programs.

A spokesman for the Public Works Department said it was not the first time federal money has been held back from the states' highway projects.

"It's become a way of life in the last several years," he said.

The spokesman said that in pastyears Presidents have held back federal highway funds in what they described as methods of fighting inflation.

The department now will have to be "extremely selective" in going ahead with new highway projects, the spokesman said. He said interstate projects most likely will be the ones to be cut because of the lack of federal money.

Moe said state financing is used primarily as matching funds and for maintenance, administration and engineering.

"For these reasons," he said, "the lack of federal funds is extremely serious."

Moe said the department is "now reviewing all rights of way purchases for future projects, whether federally aided or not, in light of remaining financing capabilities."

Before Congress failed to pass the highway programs bill, Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe said the states had enough money to continue construction at the present level if Congress acted within the first few months of next year.

Air Search For Boggs Limited

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)—The Air Force officer heading the search for missing House Majority Leader Hale Boggs and three other persons said planes may "be limited to a very few areas" today because of cloudy weather over most of Alaska.

"We probably will not have a good day searching," said Maj. Henry Stocker.

Supersonic reconnaissance jets shot thousands of feet of film Sunday for the plane carrying the four men. The craft has been missing a week.

Purchase Of Courthouse Square Set

McKeon Construction Co. of Sacramento will complete the purchase of Courthouse Square in San Rafael tomorrow afternoon, attorney Albert Bianchi announced today.

The firm, which has already paid the city $10,000 for the land, must pay a $640,000 balance by Wednesday under a city-county agreement, Bianchi said. The county will retain ownership of the land until the sale is completed.

The firm on Oct. 2 received city council approval to build an eight-story office building, a two-story office structure and a multilevel parking garage on Courthouse Square. Precise construction plans for the complex are yet to be approved by city staff, Bianchi said.

The attorney has predicted that construction will begin next month and be completed within a year.

66 Periled By Hijackers' Demands

SOFIA, Bulgaria (UPI)—Four Turkish hijackers extended their deadline for the release of 12 political prisoners from Turkish jails today, saying that if Turkey refused they would blow up their planeload of hostages.

The gang's first deadline of 6 a.m. EDT passed as the plane sat on the runway at Sofia Airport and Radio Sofia announced that "thanks to the intervention of Bulgarian authorities, the deadline has been extended." The radio did not announce the new deadline.

(In Ankara the Turkish Interior Ministry said the hijackers had set the new deadline as 7:30 p.m. (1:30 p.m. EDT.). Turkey, in a note to the Bulgarian government, said it would under no circumstances agree to negotiate with the hijackers. The Turkish cabinet has been meeting in emergency session to consider the incident.)

The hijackers, who commandeered the Turkish Airlines Boeing 707 over Turkey on a flight to Sofia early Sunday morning, demanded freedom for a dozen political prisoners and sweeping social reforms in Turkey.

If their orders were not carried out, the hijackers said, they would blow up themselves and their 66 hostages.

Radio Sofia said today "the night was full of tension for the passengers" as the first deadline approached.

The four allowed passengers out of the jet for excercise early today, making them walk in small groups around the jet.

The passengers huddled together as they stretched their legs, shielding themselves from the biting wind on the remote runway. A snowstorm subsided during the night, but snow and ice still covered the ground tojay.

During an inflight shooting shortly before landing Sunday, the hijackers wounded a crew member and a passenger. They were taken off the plane for emergency treatment at a city hospital.

Sunday's snowstorm made it difficult for witnesses to keep track of the activity going on around the plane.

The hijackers allowed three more men to be taken to a hospital, one for an operation, one suffering from heart trouble and one diabetic, health authorities said.

The hijackers originally demanded freedom for 170 political prisoners held in Turkish jails. They later changed the figure to 12 and demanded that those released be flown to Bulgaria for political asylum along with their families.

Airport workers took heaters aboard the plane and caterers supplied food and drink.

The hijackers sipped on thick, sweet Balkan coffee and munched on sandwiches.

They let two mothers with babies (the infants not counted in passenger list), two elderly women and a single woman leave the plane and go to the airport medical station, BTA the official Bulgarian news agency said.

Not long after the first deadline passed, two police cars and an unmarked police bus moved up near the plane, witnesses said. Officials gave no explanation.

Airport sources said it looked as if a break might be coming in the situation when the bus moved up but that it drove off again about an hour later.

40-Car Pileup On Foggy Road

CORONA (UPI)—At least one person was reported dead in a 40-50 car chain reaction accident on the fog-shrouded Riverside Freeway today.

The California Highway Patrol said the pileup began about 7:10 a.m. PDT.

All available ambulances and two trucks were ordered to the scene and the freeway's southbound lanes were closed to all traffic.

'Largest Ever' San Rafael Pot Haul Worth $127,500

What police called "the largest marijuana haul in San Rafael history" — 125 kilos with a street value of $127,500 — was made last night at the Bermuda Palms motel.

A man tentatively identified as C. Lawrence Rutley, 29, of Philadelphia, was arrested at 2:30 a.m. after police found 30 kilos in the trunk of his rented car outside the motel. A later search of his room, they said, yielded the other 95 kilos. Most was packed in three suitcases and two footlockers, with eight kilos stacked neatly on the bathroom floor.

San Rafael police were called at 2:10 a.m. by motel owner

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

25 Blacks Charged

HONOLULU (UPI) —Twenty-five blacks aboard the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk were charged sunday in connection with a race riot aboard their ship while off the coast of Vietnam. They face special courts martial and severe penalties if convicted of assault and rioting, according to the Navy.

A spokesman for the commander in chief of the Pacific fleet said Sunday the 25 blacks were charged in connection with a race riot Oct. 12 and 13 that injured 46 persons as the carrier served as base at "Yankee Station" off the coast of Vietnam for U.S. air strikes against North Vietnamese targets.

Those charged, all between the ages of 18 and 22, were not jailed, the spokesman said. They face special courts martial aboard the ship as soon as possible.

Big Four Talks

BERLIN (UPI)—The Big Four occupation powers began talks today on maintaining their rights in Germany after the two rival German states sign a basic treaty that will prepare the way for their entry into the United Nations.

Western officials said they expected no great difficulties in drawing up a Big Four ambassadors' declaration on their rights.

"The Russians have indicated they want such a declaration, too" a Western diplomat said.

A West German official pit it this way: "Everyone wants to keep their fingers in the German pie."

Digging Out

DUNCAN, Ariz. (UPI)—The people of Duncan are "moving back and digging out the mud," said a Greenlee County official yesterday.

The unidentified deputy was talking about some 1,000 residents who were evacuated Saturday when the Gila River surged out of its banks and water up to five feet deep swept through the community.

Mack Clark, owner of Clark's Mercantile Co., said "there was 30 inches of muddy water in the store. Of course that destroyed everything on the shelves or a big part of it.

Fire Department pumps sucked up residual pools of muddy water while the National Guard was out manning roadblocks, patrolling against looting and helping enforce the curfew.

Death Toll Rises

BELFAST (UPI)—British security officials said today a new agreement between the two feuding wings of the outlawed Irish Republican Army could escalate the shooting war in Northern Ireland.

The death toll in just over three years of Ulster violence rose Sunday to 615 when gunmen killed John Robert Bell, a 22-year-old part-time soldier of the Ulster Defense Regiment militia, in an ambush near Newtownbutler close to the Irish Republic border.

The gunmen opened fire on a car in which Bell, his brother and father were riding. Bell's father was wounded.

IRA sources said the accord reached by two of its wrangling factions was defensive and was intended solely at protecting Roman Catholics against attacks and shoot-to-kill threats by militant Protestants.

Mistrial For Turner

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI)—While waiting for a second trial on charges of securities violation, millionaire Glenn W. Turner is busy dreaming up new projects.

Judge Robert L. Williams declared a mistrial Friday night when a six-member jury couldn't agree on a verdict after two weeks of testimony.

The judge said he would announce a date for a new trial tomorrow.

In a chat with newsmen, Turner said he envisions building a "rags to riches resort" near Walt Disney World, "where people can go and wallow around in money."

He would call it "Turnerland" and it would include a big room with $1 million in bills floating around, suspended in air.

Korean Parley

SEOUL (UPI)—A 34-man South Korean delegation arrived in the North Korean capital of Pyongyang today for the third round of the main South-North Red Cross talks on seperated families.

Shortly after the southern delegation took off on its trip the South Korean government of President Park Chung Hee passed a series of laws designed to strengthen its hands under martial law proclaimed a week ago.

The extraordinary state council, currently the supreme ruling body with Park at the head, empowered itself to carry out the duties of the nation's now dissolved parliament. Thus the council combined in it all the executive and legislative poweres.

Wheat Sales

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Drought damage to China's 1972 crops may cause Peking to buy more American wheat soon, Agriculture Department officials believe.

China earlier ordered 15 million bushels of U.S. wheat— its first grain purchase in the United States since 1948.

Agriculture Department officials said in a report issued yesterday any new Chinese purchases for delivery during the 1972-73 season probably would be relatively small unless weather conditions in China prove to be much worse than currently reported.

Brandt Gains

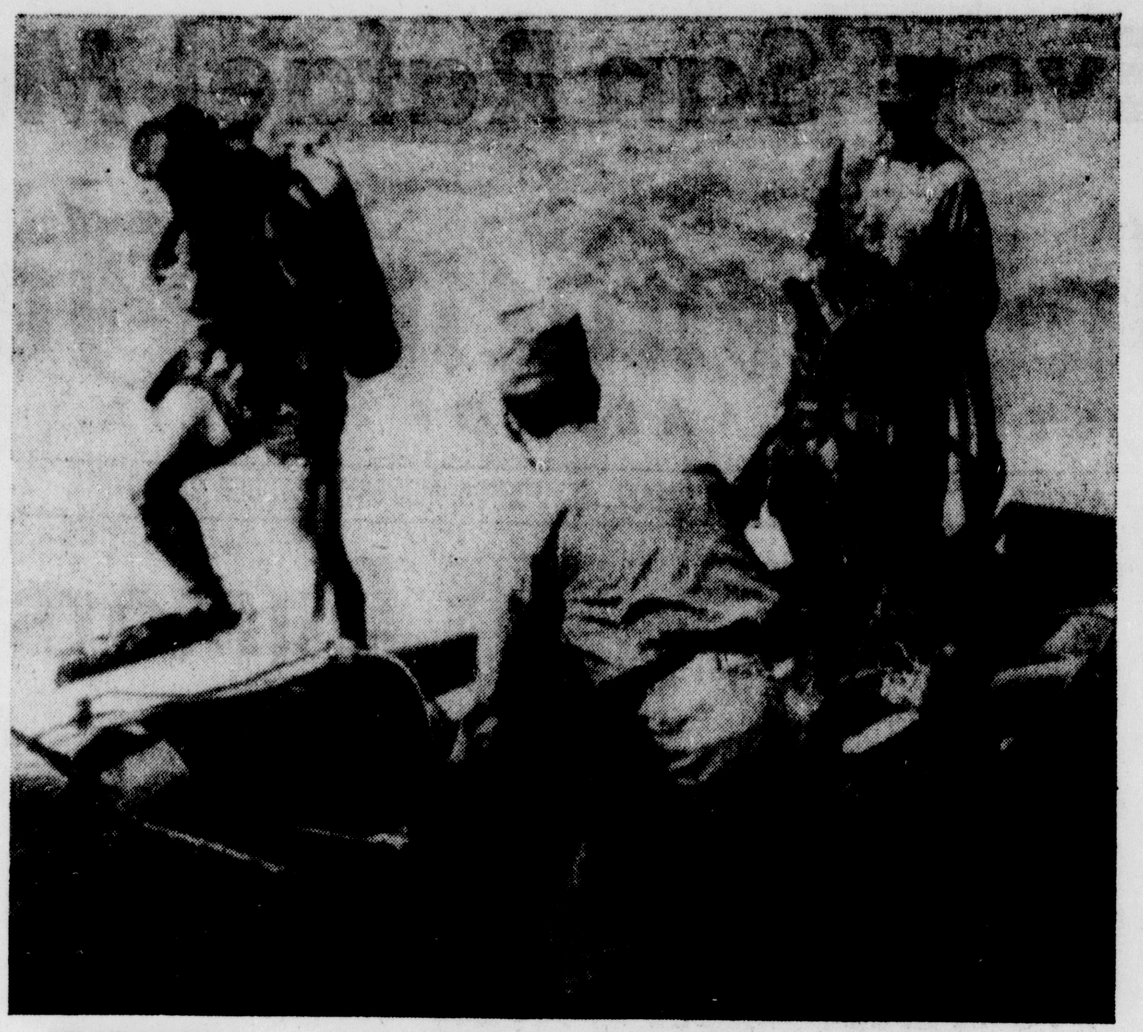
BONN (UPI)—Both Chancellor Willy Brandt's Social Democratic party and the opposition Christian Democrats made heavy gains in yesterday's local balloting in two West German states which some political observers said could have reflected voters' opinion for the Nov. 23 elections.

The Social Democrats and the Christian Democrats apparently made their gains at the expense of Foreign Minister Walter Scheel's Free Democratic party, whose percentage of the vote slipped in the states of Hesse and Lower Saxony, where the elections for city and county parliaments took place.

Final Arguments In Alioto Trial Slated

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Final arguments will take place Tuesday in the trial of Mayor Joseph L. Alioto's libel suit against Look magazine.

Alioto is suing the now defunct magazine for $12.5 million in damages on grounds it libeled him by publishing an article in 1969 linking him with the Mafia. An earlier trial ended in a hung jury.



SEARCHING — A Greek navy frogman jumps into the choppy waters off the coast near Athens to search the wreckage of a Greek Olympic Airways plane which crashed Saturday. Nineteen persons survived, and 34 died. (UPI Telephoto)

19 Survive, 34 Die As Plane Falls En Route To Athens

ATHENS (UPI)—When Sherry Lines woke up water already was gushing through the door of the airplane. She had four minutes to live or die.

She lived, but 34 other persons aboard a doomed Olympic Airways plane did not.

Miss Lines, 27, from Britain, was one of 19 passengers and crew members who escaped from the Japanese-built turboprop YS11A after it fell into in the sea minutes before its scheduled landing late Saturday after a flight from the island of Corfu to Athens.

The plane landed in rough water only 200 yards from a rocky coast and three miles from Athens airport, then sank in four minutes. Navy frogmen found the broken wreck Sunday lying in about 60 feet of water.

Authorities said today they still do not know what caused the plane, part of the Olympic Airways fleet owned by shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis, to crash.

Miss Lines said she had dozed off as the plane made its landing approach.

"Suddenly I felt a jolt and I saw water gushing into the plane," she said. "The lights went out and, with a girlfriend, I went to the back where a door was open."

By the time she got there, water had almost reached the ceiling of the fuselage.

"I took a gulp of air and dived through the water," she said. "The waves and the wind were terrific."

Among the survivors were American women identified by police as Carolyn Cagle, 70, and Helen Grumwell, 64. They were not otherwise identified and police said they did not know their hometowns.

The government ordered an investigation of the crash, which occurred during a thunderstorm.

Police Head Off Chinatown Gang War

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Police cracked down on gangs of youths in Chinatown Sunday following reports that "warfare" was about to break out between rival groups.

Police sources said surprise police sweeps aimed at breaking up developing trouble were made in the area. The reports of a potential outbreak of gang fighting involved the Wah Ching, a group of young recent immigrants, and the Ching Choy Yee, another gang.

Army Short On Women's Clothes

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Army has done so well in its new campaign to draw women into the service that it has run out of several items of women's clothing.

An Army official who normally takes any type of shortage quite seriously just smiled and said, "You might say we outstripped ourselves." About one-third more recruits are coming in than planned for this summer and fall.

The Army announced recently that it hopes to double the size of the Women's Army Corps (WAC) and will allow women to compete for all the non-combat jobs it has to offer.

U.S. Jets Down 3 Russ MIG21s

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. F4 Phantom jet fighter-bombers have shot down three Russian-built MIG21's, the fastest jets in the North Vietnamese air arsenal, in a dogfight over the Hanoi area, the U.S. command said today.

No U.S. planes were damaged in the fight, the command said. The aerial battle occurred Oct. 15, but the story was released only today because "we just got confirmation" of the MIG kills, the command said. A command spokesman said he had no explanation of why it took so long to make the confirmation.

In the ground war, field reports said Viet Cong commandos launched a futile attack on the village of Suoi Giua only 11 miles north of Saigon before dawn today and were beaten off by government troops. The reports said two Communists were killed in the fighting.

The U.S. command said B52 bombers early today pounded Communist positions 25 miles northeast of Saigon to thwart another shelling of the big Bien Hoa air base, where two civilians were killed and 41 other persons—including 18 Americans—were wounded or injured in a Sunday attack.

Earlier Sunday, field reports said government troops drove Viet Cong soldiers from Bung Cau, a hamlet only 15 miles north of Saigon overrun by the Communists Friday.

Uganda President Is Hospitalized

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI)—President Idi Amin of Uganda entered a hospital today for "a complete rest" on doctors' orders, official government radio said.

It quoted a hospital bulletin saying Amin was admitted during the morning, but gave no further details.

Manila Puts Down Red Uprising

MANILA (UPI)—Authorities said today a Maoist uprising in the Philippines which lasted more than 25 hours left at least 59 persons dead, including six government troops airlifted to the scene to battle rebels.

Information Secretary Francisco S. Tadad said government forces now were in complete control of the situation at Marawi City, located 400 miles south of Manila.

He told newsmen foreign-trained guerrillas took part in the fighting at Marawi City, a predominantly Moslem community, which raged from 7 a.m. Saturday until 9 a.m. Sunday.

The fighting ended after Manila airlifted 300 marines and army troops to the city to quell what Tatad called an organized uprising by 100 to 400 heavily-armed Maoists.

During the fighting, he said, rebels burned the provisional capitol building located inside a military camp.

Tatad said the government did not feel the clash signals wider and bloodier resistence to the nationwide proclamation of martial law Sept. 23 by President Ferdinand E. Marcos.

8:05 a.m., San Rafael — Needless call at Marin Hotel, where steam from shower tripped heat detector.

'Marilot' Will Be Given Again

Another performance of "Marilot," a spoof musical written by a Marin County official, will be given at 8 p.m. Sunday in the Sausalito Art Center. Proceeds will benefit the campaign for the passage of Measure A, the regional park district proposal on the Nov. 7 ballot.

The Arthurian comedy, written and directed by County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, is a spoof of county officials, citizens concerned with conservation and developers.

The performance will be preceded at 7 p.m. by wine tasting and viewing of open space posters from the children's art contest in behalf of Measure A.

Israel Is Using Captured Soviet Tanks, Ammo

TEL AVIV (UPI)—It squatted snugly in the sand. An orange tongue of flame flicced from its muzzle and thunder clapped. The target 800 yards away on another sand dune disintegrated in black and gray smoke.

The firepower came from a T54 tank, a Soviet-built weapon that Moscow once had given to Egypt and Syria.

Israel held the firepower demonstration Sunday to coincide with its disclosure that it has absorbed into its armored corps many of the T54s and T55s captured in the 1967 Middle East war. It added American machine guns and radios before making them operational.

Maj. Gen. Abraham Adan, commander of the armored corps, made the announcement at a news conference, but he did not say how many of the Soviet tanks were in the Israeli arsenal.

Another military spokesman said hundreds.

"The improvements we have made make them better than those in use by our hostile neighbors and, in some cases, better than those in use by Soviet forces," Adan said.

He said Israel captured 800 tanks from Egypt and Syria during the 1967 war, but many of them were not salvageable.

At the demonstration of two of the 35.4-ton T54s in sand dunes, a military spokesman said the two Soviet machine guns had been replaced by U.S.built 7.2 caliber Browning automatic rifles. The Soviet radio, he said, gave way to a "superior" American model.

The spokesman said the seats were changed to make the sleek, low-profile tanks more comfortable for the four-man crew and to extend the crew's maximum performance level to eight or 10 hours.

Israel did not change the 100mm cannon, the spokesman said, and is using captured high-explosive and armor-piercing shells, all with Soviet markings. The tank carries 35 rounds of ammunition.

The cannon has an effective range of 1,500 yards, the spokesman said, but the T54 cannot fire on the move because it does not have stabilization equipment. The more modern T55 can.

The T54, first introduced in 1954 and in use in Vietnam, has a maximum speed of 32 miles per hour and can climb grades up to 31 degrees without its 520 horsepower engine stalling, according to the spokesman.

U.S.-Albania Contacts Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States has quietly passed the word it favors reviving contacts with Albania, China's lone satellite in Europe.

Administration sources said today, however, Albania will have to give some indication of interest before a serious improvement in relations between Washington and the Communist government in Tirana can occur.

If there is such a development, American representation in the small Adriatic nation might be established through the embassy of a third country, the sources said. The United States has no form of diplomatic contact with Albania at present.

Small Turnout For Ex-Radical

STANFORD (AP) — At 26, former campus radical David Harris thinks today's students may look upon him as a historical figure.

When Harris returned to Stanford University to speak to the class of 1976, the former student body president drew only 150 freshmen out of a class of about 1,000.

"I suppose they've forgotten me somewhat. I probably make more sense to the Stanford freshmen as someone historical — the David Harris of the draft protest days four or five years ago," said Harris, a leading campus antiwar activist in the 1960s.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin®.

Boy Missing At Series Game Is Found—With Pal

OAKLAND (AP) — A police search for a 6-year-old boy missing since after Friday's World Series game here ended Sunday when the youngster was discovered safe and sound in the home of a new friend.

Elroy N. Davis, son of Louis and June Davis of Fairfield, was turned in to police by Jean Logan after she heard radio reports about the missing boy.

Elroy had been staying at the Logan home since Mrs. Logan's 7-year-old son Robert met him several blocks from the Coliseum and invited him over for the night. Mrs. Logan said she had "assumed" the boy had his parents' permission.

Police said Elroy told them his parents had left him in the car while they watched the Oakland Athletics play the Cincinnati Reds. After some time in the car he left it to look for his mother, Elroy told police.

He met Robert Logan, struck up a conversation and went to spend the night at his new friend's home, police said.

The parents told police Elroy had disappeared from their car while Davis escorted his wife to a restroom. They denied leaving him unattended in the car.

Candles Touch Off Blaze—Six Die

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —A fire that killed six brothers and sisters was touched off by candles used to light their home because the electricity had been shut off for nonpayment of a $28 electric bill, officials say.

The fire started shortly after midnight Saturday on the ground floor of the home and flames swept up a stairway to the second floor where the young children were sleeping.

Killed were Shirley Bates, 15; Philip, 11; Connie, 9; Darrel, 6; Catherine, 7; and Norma, 5.

Shirley Owen, the children's mother, was at a pool tournament when the blaze broke out. When she returned to find her children dead, Mrs. Owen collapsed and was taken to a hospital suffering from shock.

Her only child not killed by the fire was Teddy, 8, who had gone fishing with friends. Neighbors said the stepfather of the children had moved out of the Bates' home a month ago.

Two adults, Yvonne Parker and Clyde Ford, and an infant who were in a downstairs bedroom escaped the flames.

Clyde Hagerty, a neighbor, said he was awakened by "three distinct explosions" and then saw a "wall of flames pouring out of the front window."

Hagerty said he grabbed a garden hose and sprayed water through a window into the flames at the stairway door in an effort to create an avenue of escape for the children.

"My garden hose didn't do hardly any good," he said. "It was just a hope that maybe the kids would make a run for it."

Proposed Recycling Plan Due Discussion

The San Rafael Board of Education will discuss a proposed recycling plan by Survival Inc. at its meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at administration offices on E Street.

Members will also discuss a proposed fringe benefit plan for employees, a program for disadvantaged children and numerous appointments, resignations and leaves for personnel.

SOUR NOTE

John MacEnulty was forced to use this battered tuba Saturday night after his prize $1,500 tuba was stolen from his home. The St. Louis Symphony musician said he has offered a reward for the horn — which he claims has "a terrific mouth piece" —and that no questions would be asked.

Work-Furlough Plan At Prison Will End

San Quentin Prison will phase out its work-furlough program by Jan. 7, 1973, because not enough eligible inmates remain in the prison, a spokesman said today.

Deputy Warden Lee DeBord said only 25 men are in the program, going to work in Bay Area communities during the day and returning to the prison each night. All the participants have less than 90 days remaining of their prison terms.

The only remaining work furlough program will be at the Deuel Vocational Institute at Tracy, San Joaquin County. The program in the California Institution for Men at Chino closed previously, DeBord said.

He said any San Quentin prisoners eligible for work-furlough after Jan. 7 would be transferred from the prison.

DeBord called the program "70 per cent successful. . .the temptation to run is great."

Airing Set On Select Procedure

The Kentfield School District board will discuss procedures to select a new superintendent at its meeting at 8 p.m. today at Wolfe Grade School.

Since the death of long-time Supt. Anthony G. Bacich, deputy county superintendent Byron W. Mauzy has served as interim head.

Other items before tonight's meeting include the resignation of John A. Guender, custodian at Adeline E. Kent School, who has worked for the district for more than 26 years, and a request to restructure the Spanish program at the school.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Prop. 20 Postpones Doing Job Right

Drive north from Marin along the California coast, and you find most of it open, unspoiled, and in many areas reachable by the public.

We need to keep it that way. We need to keep our remaining stretches of coastline free of the kind of waterfront development that has ruined many miles of it in Southern California. We need sound, workable legislation to do the job.

Proposition 20 is not sound, workable legislation.

Proposition 20 would set up the California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission, with six regional commissions, to control the coastline. The North Central Coast Regional Commission, which would include Marin and Sonoma counties in its jurisdiction, would be made up of one county supervisor and one city councilman from Marin, the same from Sonoma, two supervisors from San Francisco, one delegate to the Association of Bay Area Governments, and seven "representatives of the public." Of the latter seven, three would be appointed by the governor, two by the Senate Rules Committee, and one by the speaker of the Assembly.

The statewide commission would have six representatives from the regional commissions (one from each), and six "representatives of the public." Of the latter six, the governor, Senate Rules Committee and speaker of the Assembly would each appoint two.

These commissions, says the proposed act, would have control over the "coastal zone," defined as extending from the limits of state jurisdiction in the Pacific Ocean to "the highest elevation of the nearest coastal mountain range." Permits from the commissions would be necessary for any construction, dredging, filling or cutting "1,000 yards landward from the mean high tide line of the sea."

The present jurisdiction of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, which is expressly excluded from control by the new commissions, extends 100 feet landward from mean high tide.

Proposition 20 would give the new commissions jurisdiction extending 2,900 feet further landward. In Marin, this takes in areas extending into San Anselmo, Lucas Valley and much of West Marin.

State Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, one of the proponents, has claimed that Marin County, except its ocean coast, would not be affected because it is not within the "coastal zone." This, however, is a questionable geographic conclusion. It is made the more questionable by the proposed act's specific exclusion of the BCDC-controlled area — which would not need to be mentioned at all if Grunsky is correct.

Within these permit areas, no construction of any kind exceeding $25,000 (which might permit a one-car garage) and no dredging or filling whatever could be done without the regional commission first holding a hearing on it. Lesser jobs could be permitted by the commission's staff.

This means endless red tape over every permit to move a few yards of dirt or to add a couple of rooms to a house — even in San Anselmo.

This "control" would continue until three months after adjournment of the 1976 Legislature, by which time the legislators would be expected to have come up with a more workable permanent plan.

We think the time for a more workable permanent plan is now.

We think the Legislature should get busy on a coastal control plan that will work, and is not a maze of meaningless red tape.

Why wait until 1976? Why enact this monstrosity as a temporary measure? Why not do the job right in the first place?

DIRTY MOVIES RUSSIAN PLOT?

Hollywood Was Clean In 'The Good Old Days'

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

One of California's leading clean thinkers came to Marin last week to reminisce about her version of the good old days when, she claimed, the eight most powerful men in the movie industry were Republicans.

They made "clean movies that were entertaining," according to Oma Umhey of Los Angeles, president of the California Federated Republican Women's Clubs. It was only when the "Russian writers" infiltrated the industry, she said, that Hollywood lost its crown as the entertainment capital of the world. Instead, it became the filth capital of the world, she asserted.

"Culver City does a $50-billion-a-year business in pornography," Mrs. Umhey declared.

It is this kind of thinking that went into Proposition 18 on the November ballot, the prepostrous measure by such people who want to brand anything they deem offensive as pornography.

Incidentally, Mrs. Umhey also is a presidential elector on the Nixon-Agnew slate.

GOV. RONALD Reagan has been stalling for almost six months in making an appointment to the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board, hardly a credit to his claim for environmental credentials.

The nine-member board is far too important a regulatory agency to be handicapped so long with a vacancy.

The seat was vacated when Reagan elevated Jean Auer of San Francisco from the regional to the parent state board in one of his finest appointments. But even a gold star does not justify such procrastination.

We hope the delay will mean a better job than the two appointments the governor made this month to the North Coastal regional board. One was the chief forester of a lumber firm, which was noteworthy since the state board recently had to step in and impose controls on siltation from lumber operations after the lumber industry pressured the regional board into inaction.

The other appointee was the county administrator of Mendocino County, where the lumber industry swings considerable political weight.

ASSEMBLYMAN William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, unquestionably enjoys considerable power in Sacramento, but conceded last week that he is powerless in a least one case back in his district.

He proudly announced his campaign will "post no signs, will buy no billboards, will display no bumper strips and refuses to clutter the countryside of Marin and Sonoma counties with any political signs or insignia of any type."

But Bagley acknowledged "one exception to this rule. I have a totally irrespressible father, aged 81, who insists on mounting an old sign on his 1960 Ford Ranchero. He's been doing it for years, and I can's stop him."

"Never mind the Food and Drug Administration talk of patent medicine abuse. We hypochondriacs get sick, too.

Tax Hike Included In Proposition 14

All of us are interested in tax reform, but Proposition 14, in fact: increases sales taxes 40% while reducing some property taxes; cripples local school funding; kills private conservation agencies such as Audubon, Sierra Club Foundation, the Nature Conservancy.

Arrigoni Ignores Residents On Signs

On Saturday, Oct. 14, you congratulated the Greenbrae Property Owners Association on its decision to prohibit political signs in Greenbrae. Following this decision I, as secretary of the Greenbrae Property Owners Association, personally notified both candidates for supervisor of the second district that their signs must come down on or before Oct. 15.

Mrs. Boxer's signs have been removed but Mr. Arrigoni's signs are still affixed to fences and are standing on lawns.

I believe Mr. Arrigoni's failure to remove these signs constitutes a lack of concern for the action taken by the Greenbrae Property Owners Association board at the request of many Greenbrae residents.

Ehrlich Contradicts Pro-Fluoridationist

When asked about the danger of drinking too much fluoridated water, Dr. Richard Stein, at a meeting at the College of Marin on Oct. 15, stated that a person would die of water poisoning before he would die of fluoride.

This seems like a very irresponsible statement in light of the fact that Prof. Paul Ehrlich, author of "The Population Bomb", tells us that fluoride pollution is definitely a serious problem. The difference is small and it is clear that some people in fluoridated communities are now taking more than the official "safe" level.

Proposition 14's Virtues Recited

Your editorial against Proposition 14, the Watson Tax Shift Amendment, accepts all the arguments against this measure without considering the responses to these arguments.

Proposition 14 includes $825 per pupil for education in California, the figure which was contained in the Reagan-Moretti Bill and which is in the governor's recent tax program. It provides half a billion dollars more for California education than in the past, and it permits districts whose per-pupil costs are above the $825 to go to the Legislature for additional funds. . .

The other key issue is the so-called "funding gap." Even A. Alan Post, the legislative analyst whose report has been cited by critics of the Proposition 14, admits the measure is in balance now, and the California Taxpayers Association says the measure is as in balance as the current state budget.

The crucial point is that property taxes are too high, and Proposition 14 will do what the Legislature has failed to do for 10 years — reduce them. . .

McGovern 'Downgrading' In News Columns Claimed

I am very dissapointed about the way you treat the news on the McGovern campaign. Here are just a few examples: Senator McGovern's victory in the primaries was mentioned only in a tiny story at the bottom (right corner) of the front page.

In publishing pictures of McGovern events you seem to favor those showing people (children and youths) occupied with other interests instead of listening to the speeches. (Do you believe that in Nixon-crowds everybody is listening to everything at every second?)

Your report on McGovern's address at the Cow Palace — termed by a San Francisco paper the biggest political event in Northern California history — was especially poor. You preferred to give Sears' Micky Mouse opening at Northgate the front page, placing the story on the Cow Palace on the second page under the heading "Political Scene," thus being able to mix it with other political news (Nixon campaign) and thereby minimize it's effect.

Your paper might not favor Senator McGovern as President but it serves a county that is predominantly Democratic and where polls show McGovern leading over Nixon. So I am sure many of your readers would appreciate a more detailed and less biased report on the McGovern campaign.

How Sweden Outlawed Water Fluoridation

I wanted to know why Sweden had recently prohibited fluoridation. Upon inquiry I received the following information from the Swedish National Board of Health and Welfare:

In 1962 parliament passed a law authorizing local governments to fluoridate water.

In 1966 the minister of social welfare affirmed that water fluoridation is not injurious to health.

In 1970 an experts' committee concluded that "neither local fluoride application nor other prophylactic measures can presently replace water fluoridation in the prevention of dental caries."

In 1971 some members of parliament introduced a bill to repeal the Fluoridation Act. After 3½ hours of debate prior to a long weekend with 77 of 350 members absent, the bill was passed over the objection of the parliamentary committee for health and welfare by 11 votes (137 to 126). The arguments used in the debate did not include any evidence, new or old, to justify repeal of the act on scientific grounds. It was a political and emotional debate with most of the Conservatives and Communists favoring repeal in opposition to the government. . .

As a pediatrician I personally favor fluoridation of water because it improves the health of children. The benefits of fluoride do not depend on who adds it to the water — nature or man.

Small Comfort For McGovern In Narrow Massachusetts Lead

BOSTON — Massachusetts is providing some political balm for Sen. George McGovern.

Not a lot, but some; enough to suggest that the senator will not for certain lose all of New England or all of the bigger states.

The political prospects here illustrate McGovern's national problems. At this point the analysts of both parties see the outlook of both candidates in nearly the same terms.

The Republican researchers say they are hard put to find any area of the country where Richard Nixon is behind — except the District of Columbia.

The Democratic researchers say they are hard put to find any area of the country where McGovern is ahead — except the District of Columbia.

TODAY MASSACHUSETTS is a sliver of light on the McGovern horizon.

The senator's standing with Massachusetts voters is visibly improving. Labor leaders are overcoming their reluctance and are beginning to work hard for his election. McGovern's recent two days of campaigning in the state have helped. Most reporters I have talked with feel that if the present trend holds, McGovern will narrowly win this state's 17 electoral votes.

This is rightly encouraging to the McGovern camp. The reason it is not very encouraging, the reason it illustrates why the Democratic nominee is behind nearly everywhere, is that Massachusetts should not be in doubt at all. Here is a state which by all past voting patterns should be for McGovern all the way from the very start and which the McGovern people should reasonably expect to win easily, decisively, massively with no doubt.

Massachusetts is a state which would seem to be made to order for a big McGovern victory without hardly raising a finger — and certainly not just a McGovern squeak-through.

Massachusetts has for quite some time been a liberal-oriented state. It has a liberal Democratic senator in Edward Kennedy and a liberal Republican senator in Edward Brooke.

It has never been fond of Richard Nixon. He lost the state by 2-to-1 in 1968 and registration is running 2-to-1 Democratic this year.

Massachusetts Democrats certainly appeared to be fond of McGovern in the primary. They gave him a big vote over all other contenders and a strong push toward the nomination.

UNDER THESE circumstances, McGovern should be far ahead in Massachusetts, ready to win going away. He isn't. The fact that he is having to turn a bad situation around and is just beginning to creep nearly even with Mr. Nixon explains in part why his campaign is lagging elsewhere.

This newspaper headline caught up the meaning of the Massachusetts situation this way: "Even His Best State Wavers on McGovern."

Rep. Michael Harrington, a liberal, pro-McGovern Massachusetts congressman, recently explained why in these words: "McGovern's campaign has been so confused and contradictory, the people who are looking for just one reason to vote for him haven't been getting it."

Apart from Massachusetts, which still isn't certain for McGovern, Mr. Nixon is strong throughout the rest of New England. Maine, which voted Democratic in '64 and '68, seems ready to return to the Republican fold.

Vermont, New Hampshire and even Connecticut, which hasn't supported a Republican presidential candidate since 1956, all show Mr. Nixon leading. Even Rhode Island, which gave Hubert Humphrey 65 per cent of its vote in 1968, appears to be turning itself upside down for the President.

'Little Black Sambo' Restored To Favor (?) By Psychiatrist

BILOXI, Miss. — Once upon a time, there was a children's story named "Little Black Sambo." For many years, grammar school beginners read it or heard it read, and because it was imaginative, simple and funny, it became a children's classic.

But eventually, some serious-minded guardians of youth perceived that it had unacceptable racial overtones, and thus it was either banned or discreetly moved off the shelves of most school libraries. However, a lady psychiatrist from Cleveland has now come up with a new analysis of the whole tale and, considering this year's standards of what is good and bad for children, her thesis may be just what is needed to reinstate "Little Black Sambo" to its former place in literature.

THI LADY SAYS the hidden point of the story is not racial at all. It is sexual. But having come this far, before I explain her explanation, let me summarize the story for those who were deprived of it in their own youth. (The Biloxi Public Library still has it, tucked away in an anthology of childhood fiction published back in the innocent days of 1937. It appears between the story of "Kit and Kat" and the familiar one about "Peter Rabbit.")

Little Black Sambo was a little black boy, and his mother was named Black Mumbo and his father Black Jumbo. They made and bought him a beautiful red coat, blue trousers, a green umbrella and a pair of purple shoes with crimson soles and crimson linings.

One day Little Black Sambo went for a walk in the jungle and met a series of tigers, and escaped being eaten only by giving each tiger one of his beautiful garments. Not long after, the tigers got into a terrible fight, throwing off the beautiful garments and growling in a circle around the tree where Little Black Sambo was hiding.

They were so busy that he came down, put on the clothes and hurried home while the tigers ran around the tree so fast they melted into a pool of butter. Black Jumbo passed by, put the butter in a brass pot and took it home, where Black Mumbo made some pancakes to put it on. And Black Mumbo ate 27 pancakes, and Black Jumbo 55, but Little Black Sambo ate 169 because he was so hungry.

And that was that. Childish, but satisfying.

UNTIL LAST WEEK, when Dr. Marjorie McDonald of Case Western Reserve University psychoanalyzed the story at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Child Psychiatry, down U.S. 90 in New Orleans.

Dr. McDonald says Sambo's witnessing the tiger fight represents a child's first accidental viewing of his parents making love. Got that? And when the tiger growled at Sambo, that was a parent's angry response to discovering the child's presence.

From here it will surprise no one to find out that the umbrella is a phallic symbol, standing for strength being passed from father to son. And the pancakes with tiger-colored butter stands for babies, and the butter itself is the result of Sambo's being so scared he lost control of his bladder.

Perfectly obvious, now that Dr. McDonld has explained it. So obvious it's hard to see how millions of us untrained lummoxes could have missed the point all these years.

PREDICTABLY, some of Dr. McDonald's competition seems envious of her dramatic insight. For example, a Dr. Paul Adams of Miami called her thesis "brilliant but pointless' and said psychoanalyzing literature did little for psychoanalysis in general and nothing for child understanding in particular. Dr. Adams suggested that Dr. McDonald and her ilk should spend less time in literary criticism and more with troubled patients.

Some other ingrates may scoff at Dr. McDonald's discoveries, perhaps as an instance of overintellectualizing our society. But then, some unbelievers scoff at Krafft-Ebbing and Freud and Kinsey and Masters and Johnson, too.

The great service that Dr. McDonald has performed for mankind may be to get Little Black Sambo off the proscribed list and back into circulation — in an illustrated edition, of course, depicting not the old racist stuff about a black boy and a bunch of tigers, but the new version as propounded by the good lady doctor from Cleveland. An ideal manual to make everything perfectly clear to the first-grade sex-education student in the enlightened '70s.

(Editor's note: The furore over "Little Black Sambo" has overlooked the fact that it was written by an Englishwoman in India and has an Indian setting. Little Black Sambo and his parents were Dravidians, the original people of India, but American readers unaware of this have seen the story as a slur on the Negro race.)

Should Secretary Share In Club's 'Mud Hen Award'?

The Bel Marin keys Yacht Club has what it calls a "mud hen award." This is given each month to the member who has pulled the biggest booboo.

Last month's award was given to Robert Buetzow. About 3:30 a.m. he and his guests on board his boat were stranded by the failure of a pump while out in the lagoon.

Barbara Boak, yacht club secretary, heard their yells and figured that anyone who would get stranded at that hour of the morning should have it recorded. So she took her camera and rowed out to get a picture of the stranded motor boat.

Her camera would not work. After several attempts at getting a picture, she gave up and loaned Buetzow her oars so he could get ashore.

When the party got ashore, Barbara's face was red — she had locked herself out of her house.

Buetzow claimed that she should share in the "mud hen award."

THE NOVATO City Council, which probably holds more records than any other in the county, has set another. It probably has the record for the shortest meeting, one minute and 45 seconds. I think it just set the record for the longest.

The council took 14 hours and 15 minutes in three sessions to complete one agenda.

During one of the three sessions, the council voted to purchase the Richard Connell property at 1531 South Novato Boulevard. This was done over the protests of residents of Hill Road who are fighting against a major collector street.

Betty Machado, ired at the council, said that the people were not getting representation. She said she worked for incorporation of the city and now would start a movement to deincorporate it. We wonder how that campaign will progress.

WHEN JERRY GILBERT was manager of the North Marin County Water District, he said that it took five inches of rain to get the soil saturated. After that, there would be appreciable runoff after each rain, and a steady runoff of water coming from the ground. With the area having passed the magical five inches, his prediction holds. Water is now seeping out of the ground in the hillsides and reservoirs are starting to fill.

Many neighborhoods have a neighborhood dog or dogs. They are he ones who like people so much that they make the rounds of the area visiting. They are friends to everyone.

Our neighborhood does not have such a dog, but it has a counterpart in a pigeon, called Lucifer. Lucifer loves to be around people. He will visit someone and follow him around the yard or in and out of a garage, cooing in pigeon language to tell the person how much he likes him.

This is not a short visit, as the pigeon may stay for half a day. On one of his visits to our house, I had to leave. Lucifer got on the hood of my car to go with me and I had to get my wife to take him off so I could drive away.

PUC Supports Plan For Bus Operation

Stephen D. Hooper, the school janitor seeking to operate a bus route between San Rafael and Richmond, has won approval from a state Public Utilities Commission examiner.

His plan had been opposed by several transportation organizations, but PUC examiner Martin J. Porter ruled that the proposed service was required for "public convenience and necessity."

Hooper, a San Rafael resident who works for the San Anselmo School District, was authorized to transport passengers and baggage as the Tamalpais Stage Co.

He is required to submit proposed fares and timetables to the commission within 120 days. The route will be from Third Street and Tamalpais Avenue in San Rafael along Third Street to Lincoln Avenue, Second Street, Grand Avenue, Francisco Boulevard, Richmond-San Rafael Bridge, Standard Avenue in Richmond, to Garrara Boulevard and MacDonald Avenue to 23rd Street.

Hooper submitted his proposal at a hearing in April. At that time, it was opposed by Berkeley Charter Lines Inc. and indirectly opposed by the Metropolitan Transportation Commission, Golden Gate Bridge District, the Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District and Cecil J. Allen, former operator of a Marin-Richmond run who still holds a PUC certificate for the service.

The bridge district had said it was not taking a stand but suggested that the service be run under a joint powers agreement between the bridge district and the Alameda-Contra Costa agency. That would have linked Marin to the Bay Area Rapid Transit District station at Richmond.

Editor Of Rolling Stone To Talk On Wednesday

Jann Wenner, the 25-year-old founder and editor of the tabloid Rolling Stone, will speak at the College of Marin's Olney Hall at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Wenner's bi-weekly was started in 1967, and now claims a circulation of 250,000. Wenner, known as a spokesman for "new journalism," will discuss his editorial and business philosophies.

His lecture on "Why Does Rolling Stone Roll?" is the first in the college's "Behind the Headline" series. Other speakers in the series will include rock impresario Bill Graham, S. I. Hayakawa, president of San Francisco State College, and Howard Moore, former defense attorney for Angela Davis.

Relevance In Soap Operas! Alas, Is Nothing Sacred?

A band of soap opera buffs as yet unnamed (the Bubble Street Irregulars?) is organizing itself in Boston. Numbering Harvard professors as well as housewives, students as well as stay-at-homes, these soap groupies take their passion seriously. Their premise is that "the soaps are a sort of mirror of our society." Upon this premise they are erecting a platform: Make soap operas more "relevant."

A perfectly OK-goes-without-saying ideal these days, one supposes. But is "relevance" really what soap operas should be about? Life is inescapably full of "relevance." Newspaper headlines scream it. Novels, plays, and films are absolutely crammed with the stuff. The relevance market is oversupplied.

IS THERE NO PLACE one can go for a little quiet irrelevance now and then? Along with the hot bath, soap opera has been one of the world's favorite forms of escape. At least until now. Are things changing — to borrow a soap's title — "As the World Turns"?

A current survey of the soaps, jumping from cake to cake like Liza on the ice, produces a mixed report. Yes, things are changing. Yes, the more they change, the more some things remain the same.

The perennial laws governing this pop art may be imperfectly summed up thus:

Soap opera is a romanticization of tha ordinary. Its milieu —peace, women's liberation — is still the kingdom of the housewife. Its ecstasies, its despairs, its dreams must be those visible from the top of a hot cup on the kitchen table. "Family" is the name of the drama.

SOAP OPERA must move slowly, like the 19th-Century serialized novels — and for the same reason. To make a plot move slowly, nothing helps like a good misunderstanding.

Misunderstanding is the raw material of soap opera. One of the recurrent lines of the old radio soap opera, "Our Gal Sunday," read: "I don't follow you, Sunday." Everybody said it to her, including her husband.

Nobody gets things straight in soap operas. Sheer lack of perception keeps problems that could have been resolved in seconds building by geometrical progression for weeks.

Soap opera relies upon coincidence almost as much as upon the obtuseness of its characters. Frequently it combines both. For instance, an obtuse character — just by coincidence — will enter a phone booth next to, say, his sister-in-law and overhear the misleading conclusion of an innocent conversation. If he is in good form, Obtuse Character will then misinterpret the remarks while not neglecting to guess wrong about whom they were addressed to. By coincidence, he will instantly run into the story's ogre and tell all.

EVERY SOAP OPERA must have its Ogre. An Ogre is usually rich, often powerful, and sometimes a mother-in-law. People are always telling the Ogre: "You've got to let people live their own lives." But it never does any good. An Ogre does by talent what an Obtuse Character does by ineptness — keeps the plot all nicely snarled.

For every Ogre, a soap opera must have its Nonfessor. The Confessor is the man or woman all the others run crying to when an Obtuse Character or an Ogre messes up their lives. The Confessor performs the narrative duty of allowing those who confess to recapitulate a good deal of plot in case you were out shopping yesterday at program time. The Confessor has a deep, soothing voice (whether male or female) in which he or she often murmurs: "I know what you must be going through." To which the correct answer is: "Do you?"

As for "relevance": "Another World" has blacks in its plot; also rehabilitated convicts. "Return to Peyton Place" features an ex-drug addict. Recently "Somerset" dealt with a troubled Vietnam veteran. But mostly relevance is a form of dramatic tokenism, like the neat mod haircuts actors are now permitted.

In the world of soap opera, kitchens gleam but housewives never polish. Men sit at office desks but they never work. Realism has the strictest limits.

The up-to-date look, when it does occur, is apt to be technical. Experimenting with an electronic mix on the soundtrack and sophisticated image-overlay, one soap opera recently visualized a heroine's dream. An Ogre appeared to her out of the spiraling mists. What could be more hip?

But then he spoke. Raising one finger like a road-company version of Banquo's ghost, he intoned: "Forego present pleasure."

You can hardly get more irrelevant than that. But what soap opera buff would really want it any other way?

Salvaging Of Boat Abandoned

Silvio Ruffino of San Rafael said Saturday he has abandoned hope of salvaging his boat, the Pogie, which sank off Alcatraz Island Oct. 4.

The craft, a 40-foot cruiser converted from war surplus by Ruffino and a familiar sight on San Francisco Bay for 25 years, hit a rock and sank in 85 feet of water.

Ruffino, of 62 Marina Boulevard, had made determined efforts to raise the Pogie, hiring a Sausalito salvage company and promising them everything except the radio and fishing equipment.

"But it looks like it's a lost cause," Ruffino said sadly today. "They can't find her.

"She's down in 85 feet of water and other boats have gone down there and she can't be located. I've abandoned hope.

"It's like losing one of the family," confessed Ruffino, "but to tell the truth, now I'd hate to see someone raise her and try to patch her up. She'd never be the same."

Registration For Courses Set

Registration will begin Wednesday for Golden Gate University's fall courses at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Courses include beginning algebra, urban and state government politics, production management, law of commercial transactions and principles of economics.

All courses will be held from Nov. 13 to Jan. 12, 1973, meeting two nights a week.

Interested students may contact Joanne L. Hoffert, coordinator, at Golden Gate University, San Francisco.

Transit Report To Be Studied Again

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, which last week ordered portions of the Phase II Balanced Transportation Report restudied, will consider tomorrow several alternate proposals for retesting the plan.

The board, meeting at 9 a.m. at the Marin Civic Center, has criticized the report as based on false assumptions. The report proposes 350 intracounty buses to carry 7 per cent of the county's 1990 population — estimated at 286,000.

Supervisors, led by Arnold M. Baptiste, have questioned whether all 350 buses are required or whether a lesser number would achieve the same results.

County Planning Director Werner Von Gundell has suggested four new transportation and population comparisons be cranked through a computer to find the answer.

The first calls for the computer to determine what percentage of the 186,000 population would be served by 100 buses, which presumably would carry more passengers but less frequently.

The second test calls for a 1990 population of 310,000 moved by 350 buses, while the third test calls for 350 buses and 286,000 people but no new roadways.

The fourth test calls for a 364,000 population to be moved by 350 buses, with some road expansion.

Von Gundell recommended the first two tests be started and will request $3,500 to cover staff and computer costs.

The supervisors' agenda also includes:

LANDSCAPING — A proposal from Kay Corlett of San Anselmo that garden clubs and civic groups be encouraged to aid in the landscaping of the Hall of Justice.

ZONING — Introduction of a new zoning ordinance to restrict development in flood plains. The new ordinance would create three separate zones within flood plains.

KITCHEN — A request from the Marin Senior Coordinating Council for $7,500 to help finance a soup kitchen at the Whistlestop in San Rafael. The kitchen would provide one hot meal a day to needy senior citizens.

EARTHQUAKE — A report on the Federal Office of Emergency Preparedness study of earthquake hazards in the Bay Area. The study will be used for a regional earthquake disaster plan.

Diggs To Head Black Assembly

CHICAGO (UPI)—The National Black Assembly elected Rep. Charles Diggs Jr., D-Mich., as chairman Sunday and voted Mayor Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind., as chairman of a National Political Council.

Before the assembly ended its convention, the delegates from across the nation passed a resolution opposing what they said were federal efforts to deport Ruwa Shiri, editor of the Chicago publication Africa Must Unite.

Hatcher said his committee would take up several issues at the assembly's next regular meeting in December in Atlanta. Among these will be the news media's handling of the arrest of several members of the De Mau Mau gang here on charges of killing nine whites, the withholding of federal housing funds and black representation and the question of quotas in the construction trades.

Funds For Work On 101 In Budget

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The state Highway Commission has adopted an $895 million highway budget for the 1973-74 fiscal year, including $2 million for work on Highway 101 in Marin and another $2 million to give bridge decks in Marin and other counties added stability during earthquakes.

The budget provides for construction or widening of 107 miles of freeways, including 45 on the interstate system.

Included is $2,107,000 to complete the Novato bypass of Highway 101. The project calls for the construction of interchanges at Rowland Boulevard, DeLong Avenue-Hancock Street and Atherton Avenue and a bridge across Novato Creek.

Also included is $2,840,000 to install earthquake hinge restrainers on the Petaluma River bridges on Route 37 in Marin and Highway 101 in Southern Sonoma. The restrainers are to provide additional strength to bridges that may be hit by earthquakes.

New Equipment To Be Sought

The Marin Hospital District board will be asked to approve purchase of a compactor for hospital waste disposal at its meeting tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the coral room of Marin General Hospital.

The district has been under orders from the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District to cease using its incinerator until pollution control standards are met.

Board members also will consider a proposed one-year $9,455 contract with the Kentfield Fire Protection District to provide fire protection to Marin General Hospital.

The fire district board approved the contract last week.

Innocent Plea To Burglary

A San Rafael man, who turned himself in to clear an acquaintance, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of burglary.

Leonard Porter, 20, was arrested Wednesday and Donald William Clausen, 23, also of San Rafael, was released when Porter said he sold an allegedly stolen television to Clausen.

Clausen had been arrested after he reportedly tried to sell a television to a San Rafael couple.

The set was part of $2,291 in household goods taken from a home near Clausen's, police said.

Preliminary hearing for Porter was set for Oct. 31.

Performance Of Job To Be Discussed

The Larkspur City Council will meet in closed session at 8 p.m. tomorrow with City Manager Kent B. Bathurst to discuss his job performance.

At last week's council meeting, Mayor William G. Fleckles asked Bathurst to meet with the council "to discuss operating procedures in his office," but did not elaborate.

City Councilman Joan Sestak said the meeting had originally been requested by Bathurst, and was simply "to talk about his job performance."

During the closed meeting, councilmen will interview six candidates for the position of city attorney, which has been vacant since Robert W. Elliott resigned July 19 pleading pressure of other business. (He is attorney for the Town of Ross and for Marin Municipal Water District.)

In the interim, his assistant, Peter B. Brekhus, is acting city attorney at a salary of $40 an hour.

Councilman Neil R. Brixon said the attorney candidates will be interviewed in secret "because they get asked a lot of personal questions and it's not something they want done in public."

Junia Brown Withdraws In Hospital Race

Junia R. Brown has withdrawn as an active candidate for the Petaluma Hospital District board in the Nov. 7 election.

Mrs. Brown said she was withdrawing in hopes of delivering her potential votes to any of three other candidates, Melvin P. Hein, Frances E. Burke or Brand T. Johnson. Mrs. Brown said she regretted having filed for the post and would not have filed had she known the three men were candidates. She said she considers them especially qualified for the posts.

"I hope for zero votes," said Mrs. Brown, whose name must remain on the ballot.

Irving B. Litchfield, who said he thought Rutley was stealing furnishings from his room and placing them in his car.

Police arrived to find the car unoccupied but with a key in the trunk lock. After the trunk was opened and the pot discovered, Rutley was arrested as he walked from his room to the car.

Police said Rutley, who registered at the motel under another name, carried conflicting identification and $400 in cash. They booked him under the name on a Pennsylvania driver's license on suspicion of possessing marijuana for sale. He was held at Marin County Jail to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow.

Zoning Ordinance May Be Adopted

The Fairfax Town Council may be on the verge of adopting a zoning ordinance first proposed by town and county planners two years ago.

The council will hold its eighth public hearing on the ordinance — which would require larger minimum lot sizes for development — at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Fairfax Women's Club.

Town Administrator Robert E. Crowe said he expected the council to adopt the ordinance at the meeting.

The ordinance would rezone the entire town and increase minimum lot sizes, Crowe said.

Correct Dates For November Meetings

The Independent-Journal erred Friday in reporting that two educational meetings scheduled by the Marin County Diabetes Association are both on Nov. 2.

One session, for all concerned with diabetes, will be held on that date at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria at Marin General Hospital. But a second, at the same time and place, will be Nov. 7. This one is for young diabetics only.

Blackmail Plot Foiled, 2 Arrested

Two San Francisco residents were arrested Saturday in San Francisco on suspicion of blackmailing a 17-year-old Novato girl.

Booked into Marin County Jail at 2:40 a.m. yesterday on suspicion of extortion were Anna Rae Attell, 18, and Willard Stamps Jr., 27. They were held in lieu of $5,000 bail to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

Two other San Francisco men may be involved in the case, police reported.

The case began Oct. 15 when, according to the Novato girl, she received a threatening telephone call during which two male voices demanded $15,000 or they would publicly accuse her of sexual perversion, police reported.

Then, last Monday, she received a letter demanding $20,000 and giving instructions to leave it in a package in a bicycle shop in the Haight-Ashbury district of San Francisco, according to police.

Such a bundle with some money in it was left at the shop through cooperation of San Francisco police and postal authorities, police said.

James Johnson, 36, of Santa Clara, and Daniel Freeman, 33, of San Francisco, picked up the bundle and were arrested by San Francisco police. They were released next day, and further investigation led to the arrest of Miss Attell and Stamps, Novato police said.

The Marin County district attorney will determine if any charges are to be brought against Johnson and Freeman, police reported.

Hall Memorial Fund ToAid The Retarded

A memorial fund for the late George W. Hall Sr., longtime Marin County assessor, will be established for the benefit of Marin's retarded children.

Gertrude M. Foley of San Rafael, who teaches retarded children, announced she and several other friends of the veteran county official are setting up the fund. It will be administered by Bank of Marin in San Rafael.

Mrs. Foley said contributions should be sent to the Bank.

Hall, county assessor from 1934 to 1958, died Oct. 16 at age 77.

Council Will Discuss Prop. 14

The San Anselmo City Council will discuss Proposition 14 on the Nov. 7 ballot — the Watson tax shift initiative — when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow in city hall.

The council will consider a recommendation from the planning commission that a fee be charged for design review and sign applications.

The council will discuss revenue sharing, appoint a clerk typist for work in the parks and recreation department, and set a closed session to consider selection of a city attorney.

Three Initiatives To Be Outlined

Speakers for the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin will outline the pros and cons of three ballot measures, the death penalty, marijuana and farm workers initiatives, at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Mill Valley.

The gathering, sponsored by a coalition of churches in Marin County, will be held in the church auditorium at 3 Oakdale Avenue in Mill Valley.

PEACE

assembly elections. The magazine said the agreement, reached by Kissinger and Hanoi's chief Paris negotiator, Le Duc Tho, provides for an interim "executive committee" to run South Vietnam's day-to-day affairs.

Newsweek said that under the accord "no covert Communist member will be eligible to serve as chairman of the executive committee, nor will Thieu be permitted to lead the group or even be a member of it."

In other developments:

—The Sunday Times-Advertiser of Trenton, N. J., reported that air transport units at McGuire Air Force Base near Trenton had been placed on a 48-hour alert for possible evacuation of U.S. troops and prisoners of war in anticipation of a peace announcement. Air Force and Pentagon spokesmen in Washington denied the report.

—Canadian Television correspondent Michael McLear said in a Sunday night broadcast in Montreal that recent interviews he had with the Communist leadership in Hanoi led him to believe "peace (in Vietnam) is likely, but not until after the (U.S. presidential) election." McLear said there were two reasons for this: "One, to quote Hanoi, Washington only two days ago showed no positive signs of wanting to settle; and two, Hanoi is suspicious of any pre-election agreement."

—The Washington Post reported from Saigon today that Thieu reportedly told a group of judges and lawyers "there will be a de facto cease-fire soon for the sake of American interests and because the Communists want to make some concessions to woo President Nixon." Thieu reportedly said Hanoi and Washington want to make concessions and "to meet the price of peace, we must pay something."

—Prime Minister Prince Souvanna Phouma of Laos said in Paris Sunday that newspapers reporting an imminent settlement of the war are generally correct.

Trustees May Kill Allocation

The Dixie School District board will consider withdrawing a $5,000 allocation for building modifications at Silveira School when it meets at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday in the district office.

Supt. Clifford W. Campbell said the proposal to withdraw the allocation follows a $12,000 estimate for improvement of the school.

The board also will consider allocating $1,500 for carpeting of the Silveira School library.

The board will meet in closed session at 7:45 p.m. to consider firing a district employee.

Housing Will Be Discussed

Martin Mackey, executive director of the Ecumenical Association for Housing, and William Parnow of Crest Pacific Properties will discuss moderate income housing in Marin at a breakfast meeting at 8 a.m. tomorrow at the Corte Madera Lions Club.

The session will be sponsored by the Marin County Board of Realtors.

Topics will include the need for moderately priced housing, and what is being done to obtain this housing.

Tiburon Subdivisions To Be Considered

TheTiburon City Council will consider approving the conversion of the 54-unit Harbor Hill subdivision and the 48-unit Marinero Circle subdivision into condominiums at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

The council postponed its decision on both conversions at its last meeting until it could determine whether they require environmental impact studies.

Member Of Paper Staff Wins Honors

Mark Bredt, a staff member of the College of Marin Times, took two first places this past weekend in the Mail-In Newspaper Contest held at the Northern California Regional Conference of the Journalism Association of Community Colleges at Merced College.

Bredt won first prize in the advertising category, and placed first in newswriting.

College of Marin also gained a third first place when Gregory Fearon, ex-student body president who is currently a candidate for the college district board, took top honors in the essay or photo collage category.

The College of Marin, with its three first places, was the overall winner of the contest which attracted entries from junior college newspapers in Northern California.

The general excellence award went to Sacramento City College.

Development To Be Topic

The San Rafael Planning Commission will attempt to determine what kinds of new development can be permitted in the city without requiring environmental impact studies when it meets at 7:30 p.m. in city hall.

Governmental agencies throughout the state have been engaged in similar deliberations since the state Supreme Court ruled that the Environmental Quality Act of 1970 requires impact reports for private as well as public developments.

The San Rafael City Council already has adopted a list of categories of development whose impact is "trivial" and thus may not require impact statements. Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner said he will present the list to planners for their consideration.

The commission also will review the city's proposed redevelopment plan at the meeting.

Drake High Schedules Annual College Night

The annual college night at Sir Francis Drake High School in San Anselmo is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Nov. 1 in the school's Little Theater, counselor Michael Convis has announced.

The two-hour session will feature workshops on private schools, the College of Marin and University of California as well as various state colleges.

Automotively speaking you are looking at the wonder of the age. The new BMW Bavaria.

Take the way it holds the road. Like you'd hold a beautiful girl. Tight. That's because of a remarkable suspension system that features MacPherson stuts up front, semi-trailing arms in back, with BMW's unique multi-jointed rear axle.
Small wonder Ken Purdy says, in Playboy Magazine, that BMW may be the best car in the world.
Frankly, our BMW engineers are auto fanatics. Their aim is to build cars they like to drive. (Can you imagine the uncommercial effrontery of that?) But then, what else would you expect from a company with the fifty-year speed and endurance traditions of Germany's famed Bavarian Motor Works?

NATURE EXPERT

Marin May Be Ideal For Art Of Foraging

By BARBARA HOSMER

Whether you are a backpacker, a family who enjoys being out of doors, or just eager to get closer to the natural world, learning to forage for wild plants is the hobby for you.

So believes Euell Gibbons, writer and prime forager who paid a brief visit to Marin Thursday on a rare trip to Northern California from his Pennsylvania home.

Gibbons said that anyone can learn to identify plants that are edible and how to forage in any place they live, and proved it by poking through a vacant lot in the heart of San Francisco Thursday.

"You don't have to go into the wilderness. Foraging is good in suburban areas especially," said Gibbons, who considers it an outdoor sport that can provide the occasional gourmet treat for the family table "which not even a millionaire can buy."

NOW THAT people are giving up hunting and fishing to some extent, learning to identify wild plant foods and to experiment with preparing them is a way to come closer to nature and to appreciate the natural plant life, no matter where they live, he believes.

"It is a way of getting in touch with nature," says the man who began foraging as a boy in the country and pursued it for some 40 years before he began to combine it with his writing career. "My mother and grandmother were naturalists and knew which plants were edible. We had wild strawberries in season, blackberry cobblers, hickory nuts and persimmon puddings."

Gibbons will tell you right off that he's not a health food man and doesn't shun market-bought foods on his family table at all.

"It's just that I look at these special things as very special, and you can add them to salads or other dishes as a treat," he says.

He revels in the availability of weeds and four mushrooms that are safe and easy to identify because "you can't confuse them with the poisonous kinds." The oyster mushrooms grow on old hardwood trees; the shaggy mane is easy to recognize; the Morel is the finest eating; and any puffball with white flesh is edible. All can be easily learned, he said.

"The best way is to go with a friend who knows them. It's the same with the flowering plants. Don't eat what you don't know, but it is easy to learn."

IT'S A SOURCE of recreation for Gibbons which he is finding that more and more people want to share.

For teaching children, foraging is an educational tool to introduce them to nature in the best way, the author say.

"You can't get the same result in a classroom. I took two young children to an island in Maine for five days and we gathered all our foods. Now they know which plants to use."

He has written about that adventure for National Geographic Magazine, and is preparing another article for it on foraging in the Rocky Mountains.

It's amazing what can be found above the timberline, "but you have to be careful that you don't destroy the balance of nature," he said.

Gibbons has taught courses on wild foods for biology, anthropology and agricultural classes in the East, and he says there is a great need now for others to learn and be able to teach.

"I would like to see it become a profession," he added, because he believes that learning wild plants that are edible is such a good way to acquire a reverence for the plant world and the balance of nature. "And people want this training so bad they'll pay plenty for it." Gibbons says he wants to remain a writer, himself, and not teach.

"I PROBABLY know 500 plants that are edible in the United States, but it takes time. I came to know them one by one."

He said that you can come to know plants in one section of the country, or in one season, and not know anything about another area or season.

Gibbons has studied the Southwestern desert area recently and recommends the small barrel cactus as "excellent eating in a salad — it resembles a pineapple and when skinned, cored and sliced has texture and succulence, but not much flavor." But cook it with sugar and add a little lemon for acid and it tastes very much like pineapple, Gibbons said. And, of course, the cactus fruits are good; the interior of prickly pears are commonly eaten.

Since California hills are covered with manzanita, he recommended the berries, adding that some people make a cider from them by crushing and straining the berries. Adding berries to orange and lemon and cooking with sugar will produce a good marmalade with something special, he says.

"The Indians used manzanita berries fresh, cooked and dried. The manzanita is a valuable wild food and, of course, a good survival food. The leaves are not much used, although you could make a tea."

WILD ANISE plants —also very much common in these parts —make a fine tea, and the branch roots are tender. "If you peel the outside and boil the inside with salt and butter alone, they are delicious. I really like that anise flavor," Gibbons said.

By the way, he added, nasturtium leaves and flowers are good in salads.

Gibbons said that dense forest where sun doesn't penetrate is the poorest for foraging.

How do you learn about edible wild plants? Gibbons advised learning from someone who knows or from a book — he has written several, but "Stalking the Wild Asparagus" is probably the best for this area, he said. He has also written one on beachcombing in Hawaii, one on the coastline, one on herbs and feasting on a diabetic diet.

GIBBONS STRONGLY believes that the whole tradition of regarding nature as an adversary or enemy to be conquered by man is totally wrong, and that only by people learning to live in a harmonious, non-destructive relationship with nature and the plant world will they survive.

Foraging is a recreation that anyone can enjoy — "I, my wife and granddaughter all do" — and ends a person's tendency to want to destroy nature.

But he believes that some of the rabid conservationists really are just enjoying the fight against development rather than seeing the need for man's harmony with plant life through careful use of it.

"It's the fight that is turning some of them on, not the goal."

GATHERING WILD FOODS is a lifelong hobby of author Euell Gibbons, a foremost "gatherer" who enjoys his forage as special treats that accompany the usual family foods. In Marin he recommended wild anise weed and manzanita berries, safe mushrooms and some wild grasses. "But you have to know what you're doing. You should never just eat a wild plant without knowing it's safe." Here he holds a wheat and barley loaf that produces a popular breakfast food. He has gathered two kinds of edible kelp, left, and hickory nuts and Jerusalem artichokes from the Northeast U.S. which he knows best.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Pray For Rain And Ignore Neighbor's Anti-Liquor Group

DEAR HELEN:

My new neighbor heads up a religious group that insists liquor of any kind is the devil's own brew. Including beer.

I am a hops farmer. Our family income is based on sales to breweries. My neighbor and I have had words. This summer he heard about the southern preacher who prayed down drought, disease and pestilence on a vineyard. So he organized his followers to meet each morning just outside my acreage, kneel facing the hops, and exhort God to wither my vines.

So far God has stayed on my side. We had a great year, but if these kooks continue — well, I'm not superstitious, but I've heard prayer moves mountains, and maybe hops aren't immune.

They do no physical damage and they are on public property (the road side) so I can't bring uuit. I'm told that prayer isn't "creating a public nuisance."

They don't read newspapers, so feel free to print this.

What would you suggest? — HOPPING MAD

DEAR MAD:

While your fanatical neighbor prays for a "dry" spell, why don't you pray for a wet winter . . . whicp may keep him and his followers indoors? (They may still try to invoke hops-flops, but at least you won't see or hear them.)

Meanwhile, ignore to conquer. Public petitioners seldom continue with "reform" that rates no notice. — H.

P.S. I hope you're right about their non-reading habits: syndicated publicity isn't exactly "no notice"!

DEAR HELEN:

About the woman who eats a pound of washing starch per day: you were right to recommend a physician.

This isn't as far-fetched a craving as you suppose. Back in 1967 a national newsmagazine carried a column about women who habitually eat starch. It warned that this can cause a deficiency in folic acid which, in turn, may cause premature births or bleeding near delivery time. It can also bring on anemia by blocking the body's absorption of iron. A correspondent answering the article said it is an old European superstition that eating starch aids in the baby's delivery. False!

When the worried husband noted a change in his wife's complexion (anemia?) and the size of her stomach (pregnancy?) he was probably right on both counts. — PROFESSOR OF PSYCHOLOGY

DEAR HELEN:

This is for "Broke To Be" who worried about the high cost of weddings for his several daughters, and wished the grooms' parents might foot a little of the bill.

Haven't you heard?

The groom's parents pay many wedding expenses plus half the reception quite often these days. If they refuse to pay, the couple uses the wedding gift checks to foot the reception.

Tradition is outdated. Back in the old days, a girl stayed home, did embroidery, learned housekeeping chores plus cooking; or, if she worked, she turned over her paycheck to the parents who, in turn, used part of the money for a big wedding. An unmarried female in the family was a disgrace, so the girl's folks were expected to meet all wedding expenses as sort of a bribe to get her off their hands.

Nowadays children seldom help around the house and they keep the money they make, so girls don't "earn" a fancy wedding. The man's parents should be equally happy to see him settled away from wild bachelorhood, so why shouldn't they share wedding bills? After all, his wife will probably work, which throws out the idea that "her" side pays for the celebration, but he pays forever afterwards.

So smile, prospective parents of the brides: better days are coming! — PARENT OF GIRLS

DEAR PARENT:

But they haven't arrived yet! Don't be surprised if some of your daughters' future in-laws haven't heard of these new rules.

And I'd hate to be the parent who dunned the newlyweds out of their wedding checks, to pay for the reception! — H.

Classic Look For Ski Parkas

Ski parkas are running along classic lines this season in a tailored style. Some feature dimensional shoulders with quilted pads, and the parkas have an underlay of foam for warmth. Front-zip pockets and snap side adjustments are handy and lend stylish detail.

Other parkas have stripes and multi-colored detail. One is distinctive with a trio of colored lines down its front and a shirt collar that can stand on its own.

Both short and long parkas are designed to go with one pant style for an ensemble look on the slopes.

Each Housewife Has Her Way Of Coping With Rising Prices

By JOSEPHINE R. RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Most young housewives are learning the meaning of thriftthese days the hard way. Is there any other? They seem to think not.

Each one has her own way of coping with rising prices. Some get around the high cost of meat by buying it wholesale.

Others have joined the nationwide sewing bee and are making clothes for themselves and their children. Neighborhood "garage sales" produce all sorts of bargains.

Young wives team up to paint and paper each other's homes. They trade children's clothing, from family to family.

THE INFORMATION comes from housewives themselves in reply to a series of interviews.

"We go out into tha country and buy our meat wholesale," said one young wife with a family of four to feed, including two hungry boys.

"I find that $100worth of this meat lasts us five months. The butcher cuts and wraps it. I store it in the freezer, my No. 1 'saver.'

"I save a lot of money on fruit by going to the orchards where we pick our own fruit, at the invitation of the growers. My husband and I and the two boys picked eight quarts of cherries, for which we paid $1.35.

"We bought our apples that way, too. I put up applesauce and sliced apples for freezing in quantities big enough for individual pies.

"We also patronize garage sales (a new version of the rummage sale). I bought a very good used jacket for my son at one of these sales — for only a dollar.

"ONE OF MY neighbors also has two boys, and we trade outgrown clothes back and forth."

In another neighborhood the women have a circulating supply of maternity clothes.

"No one I know ever buys maternity clothes now. We pass them around. They are not given away to keep. The understanding is that they will be passed along.

"We also have a babysitting pool. One person sits each week. We take turns. No one gets paid.

"There are seven in our family, and we spend $100 a week for food. That seemed like a big food bill to me, so I began asking some of my friends, 'How much is your food bill?"

"They seemed embarrassed. Didn't want to talk. I really wasn't being nosey. What I was looking for, I guess, was consolation, and a few helpful statistics.

"Finally, one friend, with a family of six, admitted she spent $85 a week on food.

"I BOYCOTT high-priced foods. I buy when the price drops and stock the freezer. I look for the cheaper cuts of meat and learn how to cook them."

From another housewife on the subject of meat:

"Ever since I saw a demonstration of meat cutting, I have been able to save a lot of money by buying a large roast or other section and having the cutter slice it up in the pieces I want.

"I buy meat as I would stock, when it is low, for an investment. Rib roast was low in price recently. I bought 30 pounds to freeze, and we eat it when meat is high."

On the high cost of clothing:

"I save money by making my own clothes and my daughter's. Readymade clothing is poorly made and too expensive.

"So about a year ago, I took some stretch-and-sew courses on making knit garments. I figured if I was going to sew, I might as well learn how to do it right.

"As for food shopping, we have almost given up eating. I feel as if I am caught up in a vice. We try to make ends meet, but it is getting tough.

"As for meat, we just don't eat as much of it. I make omelettes, spaghetti dishes. We have chicken and hamburgers and hamburger and chicken.

"I also can food — something I never did before.

"We save on home repairs. In our neighborhood, the women all pitch in. We can paper a living room or paint a kitchen. In fact, we can paint a kitchen in one day."

"If you can't pay cash, should you charge it?" That is not the philosophy of this thrifty housewife.

"I BUY almost everything with cash. We have only two charge cards and use them sparingly. We always pay the bill before the finance charge is due.

"If we do make purchases on time — like a washer or freezer — I check the interest rate and see what it adds up to.

"I also watch the billing date on my bills. If I am billed on the 15th, for instance, I wait until the 16th before I start charging. This means I will not be billed again until the 15th of the next month. Then I have almost another month before that bill is due.

"In this way, I have the use of my money for about two months before I have to pay the bill."

Almost every housewife has a pet economy — something she has worked out that works — for her anyway. How about sharing it? It may help someone else. Let us hear from you in a neighborly exchange of ideas.

California Designers Like The Cardigan

BEVERLY HILLS (UPI) — There is a theory going around in California that the state's weather may be cooling off.

West Coast designers must ave gotten the world early because many of their looks for Spring 1973 are pretty cozy.

The thing to have for Spring if you're having only one is a cardigan sweater. With buttons or without, al la Coco Chanel, the cardigan is put over everything from a bikini to an evening gown.

Members of the California Fashion Creators showed last week to some 85 fashion writers from across the nation.

West Coast designers like all kinds of pants — high-rise trousers as well as form fitting "fanny pants." They like skirts, ending at the ankle or conservatively at the knee. They like sweaters on everything, even on top of sweaters.

Fred Rothschild uses the evening sweater set over a long skirt. This house, which has long specialized in the coat and dress costume, puts turtleneck tops on their dresses and endorses snuggly wrap coats.

Jim Church, designer for California Girl, stresses the noncontroversial kind of career girl appeal that is this firm's strength. For Spring he likes sleeveless cardigan sets, jumpers, white pleated skirts and nononsense pants.

One of his freshest looks is a swinging suit with an unlined jacket, a sweater bodice and a gored skirt.

In addition to all those sweaters, California dress specialists still love their polyesters. But the traditional California sun spot colors have been upstaged by a run of soft pastels.

What Women of Marin are saying about Guaranteed Reducing . . . the GLORIA MARSHALL Way!

CHERYL KABANUCK
I started going to Gloria Marshall at the end of July. When school started in September people I know at school didn't even recognize me, they couldn't believe it. I got all kinds of compliments even from kids that never talked to me before. I reached my full guarantee way ahead of time. After forty hours I've lost 16¼ lbs. and 26¼ inches. I've never been happier. Gloria Marshall figure salon is a great place, and a happy one.

ANNE POWERS
Going from a size 14 to a size 10 something I never expected to be able to do — and I never would have been able to do it on my own (previous efforts had proved that!). But at Gloria Marshall's I found the positive inventives to achieve a new look and a new outlook.
"Try it — you'll like it."

ROSE MARCONI
This is the only way I have found to lose weight, and believe me, I have tried them all. The counselors are very friendly and everyone gets individual attention. They really care. Every woman in the salon is relaxed and enjoying herself. I think Gloria Marshall is great, you lose weight, you feel so much better, and you meet the nicest people.

JOHNNY WILLIAMS
What a pleasure it has been taking the Gloria Marshall treatments! Not only have I lost 16¼ pounds and 24½ inches, I have met many new and interesting people. As an added bonus, I feel physically better with more energy and a new feeling of well being. I look forward to each day at Gloria Marshall's.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Madwomen': An Enjoyable Evening

By KAY KSANDA

Experiencing a play at the College of Marin is always a pleasure. The sets continuously became more artistic and grand while dramatic techniques smack of professionalism, training and study.

"The Madwomen of Chaillot," by Jean Giraudoux, opened last weekend in the college's fine arts theater and, given the troupe's thorough expertise, it was not surprising to see a psychiatric consultant listed within the production credits. No more surprising than it was to be treated to a splendid evening of theater.

The set was outstanding: a French cafe with a charming awning and a flower stall, all set within a picture-postcard corner of Paris. The breadman bicycled on stage, the ragpicker, the flower lady, the three harlots and the waiter, all authentic. Everyone and everything moved and breathed.

The villainous financier entered with his claque. Truly, he and they were properly evil. Profiteers were rising from the ashes of war-torn Paris, and these men were unscrupulous.

Enter the Madwoman of Chaillot, Countess Aurelia; but, she didn't seem mad at all. Her behavior was eccentric but she was more of a bore when she spoke of her flowers and animals, and aggressive and cunning when she wangled free service.

She was charming. She handled her fellow townsfolk like a worldly-wise indulgent schoolmistress. She was obviously not balmy or part of her peer group of maniacs, a second-act trio of hallucinating and schizophrenic women. Actually, she seemed more like an aggressive talk show hostess than an endearing psychotic.

But this is the intended joy of the story. It is the play's delicious twist and its sardonic philosophy. In Chaillot it is only a madwoman that sees clearly how to defeat evil and knows the means to destroy its embodiment.

It isn't until the second act that we see the real madwoman. Ahhh ... how marvelous! This is what we wanted to see. The evil financier had said that "when the mad are respected, our power is at an end." Wow, these women were the end. At last, the missing link.

Perhaps it was Mlle. Gabriell (Sara Scatene) who was the most outrageous. Her imaginary voices spoke from a water bottle. Or perhaps it was the marvelous Mme. Josephine (Mona Ram) who smoked cigars, or the quarrelsome Mme. Constance who scolded her invisible dog. Whatever, they were beautifully bizarre.

On the evil team, Robert Hansen as the prospector, Jack Powell as the financier and Abe Kalish as the Baron were in character, in voice, and inspired. But this trio of professionals did not outstep other deft characterizations: the Ragpicker (W. H. Teed) the waiter, the sewer man, the marvelously made-up harlots, and a funny little man (Leo Galleto) who moved like a squirrel. The entire cast was excellent, presenting crisp timing, pace and projection.

Bette Besuner as Countess Aurelia played her madwoman with splendid voice, great flair and a high I.Q.

The final, fabulous three were director H. J. Susser, production and lighting artist Edward Schoon, and set designer Ronald Krempetz. They deserved a curtain call. It's a beautiful production.

Performances will continue nightly at 8 p.m., Oct. 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, Nov. 1, 2, 3, 4, 26, 27, 28.

McGovern Leads Nixon On Campus

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI)—A Gallup poll released Sunday said college students are almost equally divided in their support of Sen. George McGovern and President Nixon, with McGovern preferred by a 2 per cent margin.

Gallup listed 49 per cent of the students for McGovern compared to 47 for Nixon. The remaining 4 per cent were undecided or for other candidates. Gallup said the survey dimmed "the hopes of the McGovern forces to win huge majorities on the college campuses."

Gallup said 1,116 students out of an estimated total U.S. college population of 6 million full time students were interviewed for the poll from Sept. 25 to Oct. 8 across the nation. All were registered to vote, Gallup said.

Broken down by classes, the poll showed freshmen and sophomores favored Nixon while juniors and seniors were for McGovern.

The margins were: freshmen 56 per cent for Nixon, 40 per cent for McGovern; sophomores 52 per cent for Nixon, 45 per cent for McGovern; juniors 55 per cent for McGovern, 40 per cent for Nixon; and seniors 52 per cent for McGovern, 45 per cent for Nixon.

Based on the type of college, the poll showed 49 per cent of those at public colleges favored McGovern to 46 per cent for Nixon; 54 per cent at private colleges were for McGovern compared to 42 per cent for Nixon; and at religious affiliated colleges, 74 per cent favored Nixon to 26 per cent for McGovern.

Redwood Burl Owner Sought

The California Highway Patrol is seeking the owner of a huge redwood burl which apparently fell from a car or truck Saturday on the Tiburon off-ramp, northbound on Highway 101.

Officer Thomas Kasnick found the 200-pound burl about 8 a.m. on the exit shoulder.

The owner may pick it up at the Corte Madera Highway Patrol office, 6120 Paradise Drive, today.

Carl Jung Film Slated At College

A three-part color film made by the British Broadcasting Corporation, "The Story of Carl Gustav Jung" will be shown Thursday at 8 p.m. at Olney Hall's College of Marin.

Part of the college's "Family of Man" film series, the showing will be followed by a discussion led by Dr. Donald Sander, a private practicing Jungian analyst.

McGovern Still Certain He'll Win

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

George S. McGovern, who insists he will beat President Nixon, has 15 days to make up what pollster Louis Harris estimates at a 25 percentage points deficit.

Harris said Sunday Nixon was leading McGovern 59 to 34 per cent on the basis of a survey conducted Oct. 17-19. But the pollster said in an interview that "we still have over two weeks to go and there could be some shifts."

McGovern said in another interview that he believed "we are going to win the election by a narrow margin."

Today, the South Dakota senator scheduled a Veterans Day call upon wounded servicemen in a U.S. Naval hospital at Philadelphia and a later telethon appearance in New York City. Nixon scheduled an afternoon and evening motorcade swing through three counties in the suburbs of New York City, Westchester, Suffolk and Nassau counties.

On Sunday, Nixon made another campaign radio address from his Camp David, Md., retreat and declared in his Veterans Day remarks that he would not "make a mockery" of the sacrifices U.S. servicemen have made in Vietnam by granting amnesty to draft dodgers and deserters.

"The two and one-half million who chose to serve America in Vietnam have paid a price for their choice," Nixon said in an obvious reference to McGovern's amnesty statements. "The few hundred who chose to desert America must pay a price for their choice."

The White House also announced that Nixon would make a campaign trip Thursday to Ashland, Ky. Earlier it had been announced that he would barnstorm by motorcade through 14 Ohio communities next Saturday.

McGovern was interviewed Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

He said he suspected Nixon was ready to abandon his support for South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu in order to achieve a pre-election settlement of the Indochina war. McGovern also declared that Republican espionage had hurt his campaign.

McGovern said Nixon should answer questions about the espionage issue, and he said he believed John Mitchell quit as Nixon's campaign manager because of his involvement with the attempted bugging of Democratic headquarters at Washington's Watergate complex.

Harris was interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Asked if Nixon has the election locked up, Harris replied that "in our business we do not take the American voter for granted.

"Certainly, the burden is on McGovern to take up the slack...the largest we've seen in any modern election," Harris said. He said the Watergate episode was "beginning to take some hold" and apparently was making some "dents" in Nixon's lead. But he said McGovern continues to suffer from the image that he makes "too many mistakes" and that Nixon continues to rate as the most trustworthy of the two major candidates.

In other political developments:

—Democratic vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver said he believed Nixon was trying to negotiate a Vietnam settlement because of election pressures. He said that if Nixon is forced to conclude a peace, "it would be the greatest achievement this campaign could possibly attain."

—Nixon won the endorsements of Life Magazine and the Kansas City Star.

—Republican National Chairman Robert Dole said McGovern's defense policies will "by all appearances plunge us headlong into an era of capitulation."

Sierra Club Asks Reins On Energy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Sierra Club has appealed for national controls on the production and use of all types of energy including power plants, transmission lines, dams, oil and gas pipelines, strip mining, and storage of radioactive wastes.

In a national board of directors meeting that concluded late yesterday, the club issued a wide-ranging policy statement urging that nationwide energy and land use planning be implemented to "avert environmental disaster".

The statement cited two main goals:

—Conservation of energy resources by eliminating inefficient, wasteful and unnecessary production and usage to minimize environmental damage.

—Restoration and maintenance of environmental quality by imposing on energy producers, carriers and users constraints on air, water and land pollition, and conformance to broad national land use plans.

The statement also reaffirmed club support of regulations governing extraction, transport and storage of all fuels, siting, design and operation of power plants, discharge of wastes and by-products into air, water and on land, disposal of solid wastes, and other areas.

While calling for creation of new governmental bodies to make and enforce energy policy and land use planning, the statement said, "as a matter of principle and proper administration," no government agency should be responsible for both regulation and promotion of any energy-related activity.

The directors proposed improved safety margins for water-cooled nuclear energy plants.

"We believe that the maximum allowable power, fuel temperature, and heat transfer rates should be reduced to less than the original design specifications to increase this safety margin, pending completion of adequate safety research," their statement said.

Phoney Cancer Cures On Display At Library

The electronic machine looked very impressive, with its rows of dials and flashing lights and sensitive metal plate that hummed.

It surely must, thought desperate cancer patients, be the answer. And they paid good money to hear the readings that the supermachine rendered.

But the "radionic diagnostic instrument" was nothing more than a box of dials wired up to Christmas tree lights, and the magic sensor plate was linked to a resistance coil located under a squeak plate.

Its owner, who had claimed he could get in tune with the patient, entered a plea of nolo contendere in the Municipal Court of Los Angeles County for violating the Pure Drugs Act — and he agreed to destroy 26 more devices.

The trouble was that cancer victims had wasted precious time in consulting the quack, time that might have brought life-saving treatment from qualified physicians.

The phony machine, and others like it can be seen at the Corte Madera Regional Library, 707 Meadowsweet Drive, in a special display mounted by the American Cancer Society, through the end of November.

Loaned by state fraud investigators, the small display of quackery includes a pot of croton oil salve, which caused great bodily harm to an estimated 10,000 people, who applied it to their skin in the belief it could cure both internal and external cancers.

There's a small machine called "Film O Sonic" which was purported to treat cancer patients by music. A hidden turntable played "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes" through a pair of earphones padded with towelling. A San Francisco court found a trio guilty of conspiracy for promoting the device.

Nina Brandt, executive director of the Marin County unit of the American Cancer Society, says the society frequently puts on such displays. This exhibition is lent impetus by what she described as "at the present time a wave of people going to men who are not doctors who suggest there are various remedies to cancer."

The truth is, says Miss Brandt, that no one yet knows a miraculous cure for cancer, no matter what frauds and charlatans say.

But the truth is, also, that the rate of cure for cancer is continually climbing through early detection and treatment. Today one out of every three cancer patients can be saved by surgery, radiation and certain approved drugs.

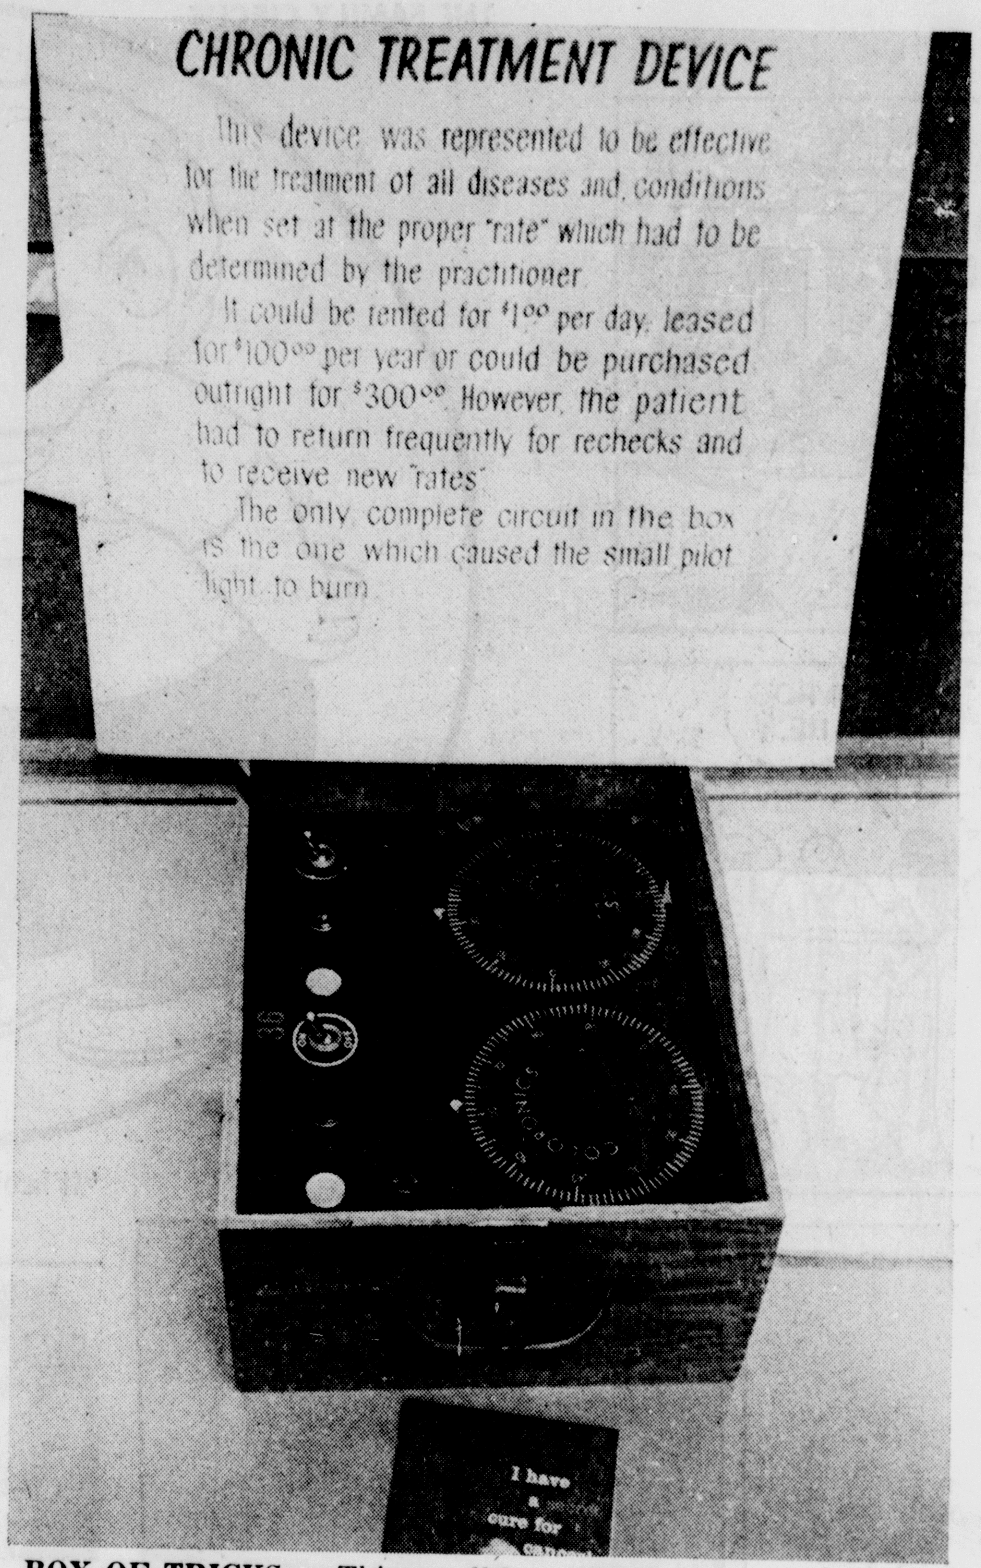
She said the society has a film warning of quackery dangers and is willing to show it to any group any time.

She said, "I would like to say to everybody go and see your doctor every year and get a complete physical examination, even though you're feeling well. All women should learn to do a breast self-examination, and have a pap smear included in their examination.

"When cancer strikes many people often do foolish things. The patient and his family become panicked, and turn to neighbors and friends for miracle cures. Unfortunately, the marvellous machines and folk medicines delay proper care, and often it's too late when they do go to their physician."

The display in Corte Madera shows only machines, but Miss Brandt said lately there's been a frightening wave of "natural medicine" in an attempt to cure cancer. She cited a system where the patient's body heat was raised to 107 degrees through application of wetpacks — many patients succumbed to the treatment itself, and it never did cure cancer.

"Then there was a treatment using salts made from concentrated male urine . . . and a serum from Argentine horses' blood . . . none were tested, and there are a lot of people going to lose their lives who might otherwise be saved, unless they learn the dangers of quackery."



CHRONIC TREATMENT DEVICE
This device was represented to be effective for the treatment of all diseases and conditions when set at the proper "rate" which had to be determined by the practitioner.
It could be rented for $1.00 per day, leased for $100.00 per year or could be purchased outright for $300.00. However, the patient had to return frequently for rechecks and to receive new "rates".
The only complete circuit in the box is the one which caused the small pilot light to burn.

REDEVELOPMENT

Objectives Of San Rafael Plan

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON
(First of three articles)

Article 13, Section 9 of the California Constitution provides for creation of community redevelopment projects to which taxes on all increases in assessed valuation can be funneled.

Although this section has been in the constitution for two decades (having been amended to its present form one decade ago), no city in Marin County ever has attempted to use it, until this year.

Now San Rafael has formed a redevelopment agency with the intention of funneling these tax increases to downtown improvements. Corte Madera has proposed one to provide community services for a new shopping center and attendant new development. Larkspur, Novato and Tiburon are considering redevelopment programs.

San Rafael, first in the field, will have a public hearing on its redevelopment plan Thursday at 8 p.m. in the city hall. Only the single public hearing is required by law.

If the city council, which has constituted itself the redevelopment agency, goes ahead with the plan, all increases in taxes on future improvements in the redevelopment area will be funneled into the redevelopment program. Taxes on existing assessed valuation in that area will continue to be divided as at present, among city, county, school districts and special districts.

The redevelopment agency (the city council) will be permitted to float bonds for public improvements within the redevelopment area, to be retired from the taxes garnered from private improvements.

These bonds will not be obligations against the city's general fund. The council cannot levy a tax to retire the bonds. The only guarantee behind the bonds will consist of the additional taxes spawned by improvements within the redevelopment area. For this reason, the bonds will carry a higher interest rate than would general obligation bonds of the city. However, William J. Bielser, assistant city manager who also is executive director of the redevelopment agency, expects they can be sold at about 6 per cent interest.

The purposes of redevelopment, and what is proposed in San Rafael, are described in a 32-page plan prepared by Urban Projects, Inc., consultants to the city.

General objectives include:

Improving access to and circulation within the downtown area.

Enhancing the downtown area to stimulate its economic activity.

Providing for major expansion and consolidation of the business district by assembling sites for major stores — putting together small parcels now in separate ownerships which inhibit major development.

Providing sites, beautification and parking to encourage further office development on Fifth and Mission avenues.

Intensifying the residential density immediately surrounding the downtown business district.

Upgrading the canal area and the canal itself, and providing recreational uses along the canal.

Providing new traffic links via Francisco Boulevard and via new streets to be developed in East San Rafael, so that the canal area will no longer be isolated by the traffic pattern.

To help achieve these objectives, the plan proposes the following specific improvements:

DOWNTOWN —

1. Remove parking, install standard sidewalks throughout, underground utilities and improve drainage on Third Street from Grand Avenue to E Street.
2. Make similar improvements on Second Street, also from Grand Avenue to E Street.
3. Widen Fourth Street to provide four traffic lanes throughout from G to Second streets.
4. Widen G Street from Fourth to Second streets.
5. Provide direct connection from Lindaro Street to Lootens Place.
6. Provide pedestrian walkway from Fourth Street to city parking lot at Third Street and Lootens Place.
7. Expand parking facilities on Third Street between A and B streets.
8. Provide additional parking in the vicinity of Fifth Avenue and Lootens Place.
9. Create a "demonstration project" on Fourth Street in the vicinity of Courthouse Square, including landscaping, removal of some curb parking, special sidewalk treatment, etc.
10. Improve Albert Park.

CANAL AREA —

1. Provide shoreline park and water-oriented facilities along the shoreline.
2. Improve the canal to provide increased capacity and better appearance.
3. Put a city park in the Bahia Vista area.

FRANCISCO BOULEVARD CORRIDOR —

1. Underground utilities along Francisco Boulevard East and West.
2. Develop continuous left-turn lane, selective widening and other traffic flow improvements.
3. Improve the Bellam Boulevard-Jacoby Street intersection and reconstruct Jacoby Street to four lanes between Bellam Boulevard and Sims Street to connect with new industrial boulevard.
4. Put new road along railroad right-of-way from A Street to Bellam Boulevard.
5. Provide another connection with Highway 17 between Bellam Boulevard and Point San Quentin.
6. Improve the canal in its lower area.

It is proposed to finance all these improvements from increases in taxes realized from private improvements that would accompany them.

(Tomorrow: Reasons for the redevelopment proposals.)

Two Caught In Theft At Firehouse

Two Petaluma men were arrested Saturday night on suspicion of trying to steal the fire prevention car beside the main fire station in Novato, police reported.

Jon Bryan Marshall, 23, and Stephen Michael Mauroni, 21, both of 18 Harris Street, Apt. C, were held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $1,200 bail to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court. Marshall also was held on suspicion of resisting arrest and malicious mischief.

Assist. Fire Chief Richard W. Beyer told police that firemen were watching television about 9:45 p.m. Saturday when they heard the motor start on the car parked at the east side of the building. The keys are always left in it for emergency use, he told police.

The firemen stopped the car and the men ran. Firemen Fred S. Pfeifer, Clyde W. Keeley and Roger L. Wehr chased the pair and caught Marshall at First Street and Grant Avenue, according to police. Mauroni then returned.

Both were turned over to Novato police, and Marshall subsequently fought with police and tried kicking out the glass in the patrol unit, police said.

Open Space Bond Issue Hearing Set

The Marinwood Community Services District board will hold a public hearing on a $600,000 bond issue to finance open space acquisition when it meets at 8 p.m. Thursday in the community center.

District residents will vote on the proposal at a special election scheduled for Jan. 23.

According to Genevieve T. Bolding, district manager, bond monies would be used to purchase some of the community's 350 acres of open space.

"Our open space committee will discuss the district's overall open space situation and methods of acquisition, but no specific parcels will be considered" at the public hearing, said Richard H. O'Brien, board chairman.

The bond election comes on the heels of a district poll which showed 89 per cent of 824 residents queried were in favor of open space acquisition.

No other public hearing has been scheduled on the bond election, Mrs. Bolding said.

Money Taken

Thieves took $229.06 in cash from Courtesy Texaco, 601 Fourth Street in San Rafael last night, police reported. Entrance was made through a smashed window, and the money taken from a tray in a clothes locker, police said.

Petaluman Killed In Highway Collision

A Petaluma man was killed and three others injured in a three-car accident Saturday at 6:55 p.m. on Highway 101, two miles north of the Marin County line.

Michael Holman, 25, of 718 I Street, died at Hillcrest Hospital shortly after the accident.

The California Highway Patrol said Holman had been a passenger in a northbound car driven by Al J. Miranda, 25, of 1109 First Street, Novato.

Officers said that as Miranda attempted to change lanes on the freeway he struck another northbound car driven by Robert R. Forbush Sr., 42, of 138 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael, forcing that car down an embankment.

Officers said the car driven by Miranda then skidded wildly across the center divider into the southbound lane where it struck a car driven by Mary L. Joffie, 39, of Kensington, Alameda County.

Forbush, Mrs. Joffie and her husband, Manuel, 42, were treated at Hillcrest Hospital for cuts and bruises.

Holman was born in Oakland and moved to Novato with his family in 1954. He was a graduate of San Rafael High School and had spent three years in the Army.

Holman worked for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. after his discharge and later worked as a carpenter. He and his wife, Gloria, had lived in Petaluma for a year.

He also is survived by two daughters, Michelle and Shalome Holman; his father, Harold Holman of Novato; his mother, Mamie Moores of Anchorage, Alaska; and two sisters, Janet Giubbini of Novato and Mary Elizabeth Holman of Anchorage.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Redwood Chapel Funeral Home, Novato.

Residential Burglaries On Increase

Residential burglaries by forced entry have doubled in Corte Madera this year, according to the September monthly report issued by police chief David L. McIntosh.

By the end of September there had been 33 forced-entry burglaries in the town, compared to 16 by the same time last year. There had also had been 18 home burglaries not involving force, compared to 16 last year.

The incidence of shoplifting showed a steep rise, with 100 cases so far this year, nearly double last year's total of 57.

On the brighter side fewer bicycles have been stolen in the town, with 51 reported taken by the end of September, compared to 120 at this time last year.

The Corte Madera police department collected $1,763.44 in fines during September, bringing the year's total to $19,805.85, well over last year's comparable figure of $11,525.88.

Police had issued a total of 877 parking tickets this year, more than double last year's figure of 411.

Pedestrian Hit, Hurt By Auto

Dale Lee Thompson, 19, of 540 Eldridge Street, Novato, was hospitalized for one day with a cut arm resulting from an automobile-pedestrian accident, Novato General Hospital authorities reported.

According to police, John Charles Fletcher, 19, of 2436 Center Road, Novato, was backing out onto Scown Lane west of Reichert Avenue about 11:55 p.m., Saturday. Fletcher told police he felt his car hit something and stopped. He found that he had run over Thompson's arm. He said he had not seen Thompson as he started to back out onto the street.

Rezoning Of Marsh To Be Sought

The Corte Madera Town Council will be asked to rezone Heerdt Marsh at its meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall. The marshland is presently zoned for light industrial uses but a proposed change would require use permits for any development.

Town Councilman Robert J. Flahive suggested the zone change, noting that numerous development proposals for the marsh have been made in past years and that there currently is a strong move from conservationists to buy the marsh and keep it in its natural state.

Lee R. Miller of 27 Fern Road, Kentfield, leader of the campaign to preserve the marshland, is expected to tell the council that the area his group wants to buy is bounded on the north by Corte Madera Creek, on the east by the bay, on the south by the Muzio property and on the west by the Northern Pacific Railroad right-of-way.

The marsh is not included in the Corte Madera Redevelopment area.

The council also will consider a set of guidelines for environmental impact rulings. Cal West Properties, developer of the controversial Madera del Presidio project, has asked the council to rule on whether an environmental impact study is needed before being granted a building permit.

Bomb Threat Call Traced To Novatan

A telephone operator who received a threat yesterday to bomb the Oakland Coliseum and a supervisor who traced the call were credited by police with making possible the arrest of a Novato man.

Luther Elmer Jackson, 34, of 572 Fernando Drive, arrested on suspicion of making a bomb threat, was released on $5,000 bail to appear Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court.

According to police, operator Beatrice R. Kolby received the call about 6:30 p.m. in the San Rafael office of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

"I just want to tell you there's a bomb going to go off tonight in the Oakland Coliseum when the A's return," said a slow Southern voice.

The supervisor, Alta E. Sharpe, kept the line open and traced the call to Jackson's home, police reported. His wife, Geraldine, let police into the house and led them to the bedroom where Jackson was in bed. He let them use the telephone. The operator was still on the line and when Jackson spoke to her, she identified him as the voice she had heard, police reported.

Jackson said he had only called the operator to get the Moose Lodge as he was having trouble with his telephone.

LINDA CLARK, nutrition reporter, author, columnist, has written a beautiful "new age" book called HELP YOURSELF TO HEALTH, a Pyramid House publication. It really puts the search for optimum health all together in the opinion of many readers, including yours truly. As the jacket explains: "Correct nutrition is not the whole story for everyone in restoring health ... This book presents some guidelines for living more successfully in this new world."

Included are methods of eliminating negative thoughts, learning to control the subconscious, contact healing, sound therapy, color treatment. Prayer and radiating faith and love are emphasized. One chapter is called "Angels Can Be Fun!" Using the personal and universal resources available to us all, Linda believes, can "unleash the dynamo" within - your "sleeping giant of health, strength, love and life power," thus you can HELP YOURSELF TO HEALTH.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

BIRTHDAY RAMBLINGS: Did you know Oct. 23 is the birthday of Adlai E. Stevenson? No, not the former Illinois governor who twice ran against Dwight D. Eisenhower, but his grandfather, who served as Vice President in the administration of Grover Cleveland. This first Adlai was a Democrat, as were numbers II and III. The third? He's the U.S. Senator from Illinois, elected in 1970 to fill the remaining four years of the late Everett Dirksen.

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS TODAY

1. JOHNNY CARSON, the wide-eyed Iowan who keeps six million Americans awake nights, is 47 today. Host of the "Tonight Show" for the last 10 years, Johnny brings $25 million annually into the coffers of NBC. Guess how much a sponsor must pay to advertise for one-minute on the Carson show — $5,000, $10,000 or $15,000?

2. DIANA DORS, whose shapely 35-23-35 made her a top number in Hollywood in the 1940s, is 44 today. Born in Swindon, England, her real name is Daisy Flucks. Is that right?

3. JAMES DALY, white-haired medicine man of TV, will celebrate his 54th birthday today. Now appearing as a doctor on CBS' "Medical Center," Daly is better qualified to teach English. He got a degree in that subject at Cornell College after World War II service. Anybody know his name on TV? It's either Dr. Paul Lochner or Dr. Lawrence Preston.

ANSWERS

1. $15,000.
2. Right.
3. Dr. Paul Lochner.

Million Squatters

MANILA (UPI)—There are 1.3 million squatters in the Greater Manila area, says a study released by The Economic Development Foundation (EDF). The EDF said the projection is that by 1980 one out of every two persons in the metropolitan area will be either a squatter or slum dweller.

The Rule: Make Shutout Bids Early Or Just Forget Them

South's late bid of five hearts was all the rage 35 years ago. You used to hide in the bushes throughout the auction, and then you came out with your bid. The opponents were supposed to be thrown into confusion, and 35 years ago they actually were.

BID DOUBLED

Today's players know enough to double. West had already shown his spade support and could afford to double to show defensive strength.

West opened the four of spades, and East won with the king. East cashed the king of clubs and then led a trump. West took the ace of trumps and cashed the top clubs. This gave East the chance to discard his diamonds. West thereupon led a diamond to give East a ruffing trick.

By this time, South was down four tricks. The penalty, less honors, came to an even 1,000 points — far more than the value of any game East might have made.

EARLY JUMP SAFER

South could have had the best of it if he had jumped to four hearts at his first turn. West could hardly double without ever showing his spade support. So he would raise to four spades, and South would be out of trouble.

If North happened to hold long hearts and short clubs, he would bid five hearts. Hence South would have his chance for a good sacrifice without taking much risk.

A TOTAL LOSS

The "sacrifice" of 1,000 points was a total loss because East wouldn't have made four spades. South would lead the king of hearts, and North would ruff out dummy's ace of hearts. North would then cash two diamonds, and East would eventually have to give up another heart trick.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠- 10 8 7 4
♥- A 6
♦- 9 8 5
♣- A Q 4 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

In the old days you would open with two and one-half tricks, but this hand is not really robust enough for an opening bid.

New Cases Of Blindness Hit

DALLAS (UPI)—Fifty per cent of all new cases of blindness developing in the United States each year can be prevented, the head of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness says.

"We find ignorance and neglect are our leading causes of blindness, not diseases per se," said Mrs. Virginia S. Boyce, executive director of the organization.

"If people would only pay as much attention to their eyesight as they do their cosmetic appearance much of it could be detected as it develops and be stopped or cured."

ISN'T GOOD SERVICE WONDERFUL?
Our service is "late" but nice. Marin commuters have found it very convenient that our service department is now open till 7 pm. Monday thru Friday. In most cases we can give your VW a maintenance or tune-up by 7 pm if you come in by 5 pm. Call our private service line 388-5230 and give us a vote for "late" service.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

For A Closer Shave, Wait 30 Minutes After Waking Up

When is the best time for a man to shave? An English physiologist believes that a man gets a more lasting shave if he waits at least 30 minutes after rising. According to an editorial in The Lancet, the physiologist weighed the hair removed at various times and found a remarkable apparent growth in the first four hours after getting up.

Facial skin is puffy on arising and it takes time for the tissue juices to settle via gravity. Some people have visible puffiness under the eyes in the morning. The Britisher proved his point by measuring his earlobes when he awakened and again at various intervals after getting out of bed. Whatever the time of day, the earlobe became less puffy after he stood up.

THOSE WHO shave too soon do not get a close shave because only a part of the beard protrudes from the swollen skin. However, there is one "hitch" in this observation. Every barber knows that the secret to a good shave (razor and soap) is a wet beard. A few minutes are needed to eliminate the natural grease by washing the face with soap and hot water. If the outmost layers of the skin absorb water, the face is just as puffy as it was before getting out of bed. And the barber adds to the wetting by applying hot wet towels. The hair shaft is dead, but may also stiffen slightly.

The subsequent shave is very professional but, according to The Lancet, "only until the face dries again." The same phenomenon is responsible for the apparent hair growth after death. A similar drying or shrinkage of the facial skin takes place allowing each hair shaft to protrude a tiny bit further from the hair follicle.

BEARD GROWTH is most prolific in men between 40 and 65 years of age. The amount of hair differs with race. For example, the daily weight of the whiskers removed from a Japanese man is only a quarter of that obtained from a Westerner.

Meanwhile, I'll stick to my electric razor, but from now on, I'll wait at least 30 minutes before starting the tiresome chore.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

CHINESE FOOD SYNDROME

S. W. writes: Can Chinese food have a bad effect on some people? Whenever I eat egg foo young or chop suey, I develop a strange feeling in my head (at the temples).

REPLY

The Chinese food syndrome, as it is called, develops in people overly sensitive to monosodium glutamate (MSG), which is a basic ingredient in this type of cooking.

CHILDHOOD HABITS

A reader writes: My 2-year-old daughter has sucked her tongue and pulled her hair ever since she was an infant. Is there any way to stop this habit or will she outgrow it?

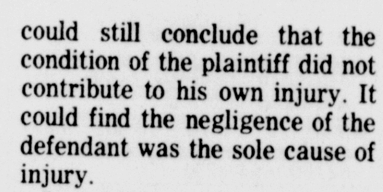
REPLY

We do not know why some children find pleasure in doing these things. It may be a way of relieving tension. Best results are obtained by spending a little more time with the tot — coddling, talking, and encouraging her to use the hands for other purposes, such as games. Avoid scolding or drawing attention to the habit. I assume there is nothing in the mouth or tongue that is irritating these parts.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

The Litter Bug: Human Type



Sam Stroke went for a midnight swim in the ocean. Later he dozed off on the beach. After several hours he was abruptly awakened by the beach cleaning machine as it ran into him. Injured, Sam sued the city. In court he lost.

Sam had no business sleeping on the beach. He could hardly be seen in the darkness. And Sam had gone to the beach often. He knew there was a sweeper that cleaned up debris several times a week. He contributed to his own injury by falling asleep and ignoring the potential danger. Sam had no cause of action for his injuries.

Contributory negligence by the plaintiff is usually a defense to the negligence of the defendant. But for the defense to apply, the negligence of the plaintiff has to be "contributory" or the "proximate cause" of his injuries.

Take the drunken pedestrian. He stumbles over a big hole in the sidewalk. As one judge said, "the drunk is in greater need of a safe sidewalk than the sober pedestrian." The court or jury could still conclude that the condition of the plaintiff did not contribute to his own injury. It could find the negligence of the defendant was the sole cause of injury.

In another case, a boy was riding on the handlebars of a bicycle. He was struck by an auto which ran through the pedestrian crosswalk. True, there was an ordinance which banned riding on handlebars. Still the court found that the negligence in riding on the bars had nothing to do with the injury. Had the boy been on foot in that crosswalk the accident would still have happened. The boy's negligence did not contribute to his own injury.

In still another case, Tom stood on the back of his truck to unload his cargo while it was parked in an alley. He momentarily forgot about some low hanging wires and injured his arm. The court said the low, partially concealed wires were the sole cause of his injury and the plaintiff's forgetfulness did not contribute to his injuries.

School Revenue Session Will Be Held On Oct. 31

A detailed look at the financial future of the San Rafael school system has been scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Oct. 31 in the schools administration building, according to Supt. John F. Plank.

He said that staff, teachers and parents will examine anticipated revenue for 1973-74 and consider possible staff and program cutbacks that may be needed to balance the budget.

The meeting comes in the face of proposals such as Proposition 14, the Watson tax shift initiative, and redevelopment, which threaten to cut into district funds, he said.

Plans said a bond issue or tax increase were possible, but not probable, next year.

Folk Music Concert Scheduled Friday

The San Francisco and Marin County folk music clubs will sponsor a concert with song stylist Rosalie Sorrels Friday at 8 p.m. at 81 Hillside Avenue, Mill Valley.

Music will range from original compositions to country western to Mormon ballads and contemporary pop.

Two Apartment Plans Before Novato Council

The Novato City Council will consider precise development plans for two apartment houses at its meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow Tuesday at the community house.

The projects are the Rowland Boulevard apartments of 32 units on 2.3 acres south of Rowland Boulevard and east of South Novato Boulevard and the Cow Barn apartments of 90 units on five acres on South Novato Boulevard opposite fire station 2.

The council again will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday at the community house to decide which community developments will need environmental impact studies in accordance with the recent state Supreme Court decision.

Other items to go before the council tomorrow include awarding a contract for police cars and changing the name of a portion of San Jose Boulevard to Ignacio Boulevard.

ALMANAC

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Monday, Oct. 23, the 297th day of 1972 with 69 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Saturn and Mars. The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

French actress Sarah Bernhardt was born Oct. 23, 1845.

On this day in history:

In 1915, an estimated 2,500 women marched in New York City demanding the right to vote throughout the United States.

In 1942, the British 8th Army launched an offensive at El Alamein, Egypt, starting a campaign that was to sweep the Axis forces out of North Africa.

In 1947, the state of Maine was declared a jisaster area as forest fires caused damage estimated at $30 million.

In 1955, Ngo Dinh Diem was chosen to take over the South Vietnamese government in the country's first free election. He later was assassinated.

A thought for the day: American writer Carl Sandburg said, "Time is a sandpile we run our fingers through."

Jazz Concert Set Nov. 1 At High School

"Big Band Bash," the first jazz concert of the school year at San Rafael High School, will be at 8 p.m. Nov. 1 in the auditorium.

Three bands will be featured, according to Terry Summa, director of bands.

In addition to the San Rafael High School stage band and the jazz ensemble, both student groups, the new "adult jazz band," composed of musicians from 18 to 65, will perform. Music arranged for Buddy Rich and Stan Kenton will be included in their set.

The concert is a benefit to help send the jazz ensemble to the Reno Jazz Festival next March.

Alternative Takes Ballot Issues Stand

Marin Alternative, with less than 10 per cent of its membership voting, has taken positions on eight state and local measures on the November ballot.

The positions were voted after three hours of arguments for and against the measures at the organization's meeting last Sunday. Roughly 30 of the 375 members were present to vote, according to the organization's president, Grace Hughes of Mill Valley.

Endorsements were voted for three of the measures: Proposition 19, the state measure to remove the penalties for possession of marijuana for personal use; Proposition 20, the state coastal initiative, and county Measure A, which would form a regional park district.

Opposition was voted to Proposition 14, to limit property tax rates; Proposition 17, to restore the death penalty; Proposition 18, to tighten controls on obscenity; Proposition 21, to eliminate racial integration guidelines for schools, and Proposition 22, to bar secondary boycotts and require collective bargaining in farm labor disputes.

Quentin Peninsula Plan Hearing Slated Wednesday

The Larkspur Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on a general plan for the San Quentin Peninsula at its meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at city hall.

A plan for large-scale development of the city's territory east of Highway 101 jolted both officials and audience at a joint city council-planning commission meeting last week, but public discussion was curtailed pending this week's public hearing.

The general plan is set for hearing at 8:45 p.m.

However, a related rezoning application by A. and B. Finnila for rezoning of a go-kart track on East Sir Frances Drake Boulevard on the Peninsula from industrial to C-2 commercial is set for hearing at 8 p.m.

Later in the meeting commissioners will be asked to approve a lot split application by the Remillard Company, also with peninsula holdings. Originally before the commission last month, the application was deferred when commissioner said they first wanted to see general plan recommendations for the entire peninsula.

Mr. J. Oliver Finds Way To Help Shrink Painful Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues

...caused by inflammation and infection.

Junction City, Kansas.—Mr. J. Oliver writes: "I couldn't get relief. Then I bought Preparation H. I surely recommend it. It's worth its weight in gold."

(Note: Doctors' tests have proved Preparation H® actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation. It's so effective that in many cases the first applications give prompt, temporary relief from pain and itching in such tissues. There's no other formula like Preparation H.)

Purchase Awards Are Announced

Sausalito glassblower John Baldwin and Inverness jewelry maker Edgar Harris were among 19 artisans chosen to receive "purchase awards" at the just-concluded sixth annual Renaissance Pleasure Faire.

Their works — a blown glass bottle and stopper and a silver pendant and chain, will become part of the Renaissance Center's permanent crafts collection.

Judging was based upon artisanship and the ability to work in the motif and materials of Renaissance times.

Pornography Is Losing To 'Civil Nuisance' Laws

By DAVID MUTCH
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. — The legal battle against pornography is visibly turning against pornographers, according to a group of experts on obscenity law.

One reason: a new effort to fight pornography through civil "nuisance laws" in the states.

One of the top legal battles in the United States in the last decade, the pornography dispute has involved the Supreme Court of the United States and the highest courts in at least 14 states.

The new optimism comes from lawyers from the Committee for Decent Literature (CDL) founded in Cincinnati in 1958.

CDL lawyers presented a one-day seminar here for prosecuting attorneys and law-enforcement personnel in Illinois, the 14th such state session they have organized. They were invited by Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

The positive hopes of CDL lawyers hinge on two factors:

—That the Supreme Court of the United States, which has changed complexion since President Nixon has made his administration's appointments, has accepted several obscenity cases for all decisions that could be vehicles for "clarified law".

—That obscenity can be fought by using "nuisance laws." The nation's high court also has agreed to hear four cases involving use of nuisance laws to halt pornography operators.

Obscenity opponents are counting on another type of help from the Supreme Court. In the last two years the court has clearly said that decisions in this field should be in the hands of state courts. Defense lawyers have relied heavily on the federal courts for their victories. Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, as well as Associates Justices William H. Rehnquist and Lewis F. Powell Jr., Nixon appointees, all feel this way.

The first successful use of the nuisance law involved the pornographic film "Vixen." Richard Bertsch of Cleveland, an attorney who devotes a good deal of his time to CDL, explains the advantages to prosecutors in the use of civil law: "First, it makes it possible to shut down a theater in short order, even though we have to prove obscenity and abide by all due process requirements.

"But time is a key element. All these pornographers want is continuances so they can make their money.

"In Ohio, the nuisance law makes it possible also to bring in the parties who make and distribute these films. And of great importance, box office receipts can be brought in and turned over to the state. Even the prosecution attorney's fees and court costs can be taken from the defendants when a case is won. Of course criminal charges can also be pressed, but the civil law gives us a two-edged sword. In the case involving the film 'Without a Stitch,' we brought in box office receipts of $80,000 and involved Sherpix and Company Inc., a large producer and distributor, and Art Guild Theaters, a chain showing porno films."

Nuisance laws have their origin in British common law. All states have them in one form or another. They are designed to combat anything that is detrimental to the well-being of a community.

Mr. Bertsch points out that nuisance laws are being used extensively to fight pollution of the environment. He says: "Isn't obscenity just moral pollution? We decided that nuisance laws should be applied to this problem, which has so many prosecutors confused, despondent, and downright defeatist."

The power to close down an establishment comes from equity law, a part of civil law that deals with adequate remedy. The legal logic here is that there is no way to award damage to the community that has been exposed to pornography, so the only thing to do is abate it — close down the operation that is selling or exhibiting the obscene material.

The idea of using the nuisance laws in this way actually came from James Clancy, an attorney in Los Angeles who now devotes full time to CDL.

CDL officials stress the importance of being aggressive against pornography, even in the face of resistance. Many of them have been sued by pornographers. But they say such suits are only "malicious abuse of the civil process" and are easily remedied by countersuits that can force pornographers to open up their entire business records under the federal disclosure laws.

Some of the major questions in obscenity law the nation's high court will be ruling on this fall include: whether an adversary hearing must be held with the defendant's attorney present prior to seizing an allegedly obscene movie; whether the United States may prevent importation of obscene matter when the importer claims the material is strictly for his own use and possession; whether it is a valid test for obscenity to ask if material is utterly without redeeming social value, and, if so, upon whom does the burden of proof fall; and when a community standard is involved, is the "community" city-wide, state-wide, or national?

The decisions by the high court this fall may well be historic. Beginning in 1967, in some 22 decisions, five members of the U.S. Supreme Court overturned convictions on obscenity in 14 states.

Mr. Bertsch comments on this: "Five men imposed their standards on a whole nation and overruled 98 jurists, upset due process, and on top of it all could not agree in their written decisions why they had done it. No wonder we have had a mess."

Common Market Not Affected

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The chairman of the European Parliament said today that the European summit conference in Paris did not take action to make the Common Market more democratic or efficient.

"The institutional field was covered insufficiently," Walter Behrendt told newsmen. "This concerns the efficiency of the working of the council of ministers as well as the democratization of the community by a more complete participation of the European Parliament."

"The first Summit conference of the enlarged community gave proof that the community is viable in its new form. It withstood its first test successfully," he said.

Exit On The Right Side

When driving in heavily congested shopping areas and parking lots we have all been confronted with the inattentive and inconsiderate motorist who parks his vehicle and, without looking, blindly opens his door into the traffic lane and steps out.

A person that does this is unaware of what he is doing until a passing vehicle is unable to stop and it takes his left door off and possibly an arm or leg.

California Vehicle Code section 22517 is specific as to what must not be done on the part of the person getting out of the parked vehicle. It states, "No person shall open the door of a vehicle on the side available to moving traffic unless is is reasonably safe to do so and can be done without interfering with the movement of such traffic, nor shall any person leave a door open upon the side of a vehicle available to moving traffic for a period of time longer than necessary to load or unload passengers."

Any time you open your door on the traffic side you may take someone by surprise and even if evasive action isn't necessary, a driver may panic and swerve into another vehicle.

The easy way to avoid the unpleasant situation is to slide across the seat and exit on the right, away from traffic.

Guilty Plea To Armed Robbery

A 21-year-old Santa Venetia resident, charged with the armed robbery of about $1,400 from a bartender in San Rafael, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court.

Jerry Wayne Hurd pleaded guilty before Judge Samuel W. Gardiner on condition he receives a suspended term in prison and a year in the county jail when sentenced Nov. 27.

Codefendant Edward Alexander Moten, 20, an airman at Hamilton Air Force Base, is due in court tomorrow for possible change of plea.

The two men were arrested Sept. 3 in San Francisco less than half an hour after three men, one carrying a pistol, held up bartender John Goveia at George's Recreation Parlor and emptied two cash registers and a safe.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY
Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Enthusiastic Crowd Sees A's Return

RALPH CHATOIAN

I-J Sports Editor

The Swingin' A's Are Truly Amazing

I never thought I would be watching the World Series at Candlestick Park this year, but there I was yesterday, rooting for the A's.

I was at Candlestick for the 49er-Saints game and made it to the press room in time to see the last inning of the seventh game yesterday on television. The timing was perfect. It gave me just enough time to hop on the elevator and get to my press box seat just a minute or two before the kickoff of the 49er game.

THAT HAD TO be one of the most exciting World Series, with all but one of the seven games decided by just one run. The Swingin' A's are truly amazing. But more than that, they are good. It's not an easy thing to shut off the hitting of the powerful Cincinnati Reds, but that's just what the A's did in six of the seven games.

Regardless of all the bad mouthing against A's owner Charles O. Finley by all his critics, the fact remains: he came out of the badlands of the midwest to bring the Bay Area its first professional sports championship.

The San Francisco Giants of 1962, the (then) San Francisco Warriors of 1967 and the Oakland Raiders of 1967 all made it to the second best position, losing in the World Series, National Basketball Association finals and Super Bowl.

But the A's made it all the way. They are numero uno.

IF YOU WOULD have asked catcher Gene Tenace two weeks ago his chances of getting into the record books alongside Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig he would have thought you were daffy. But after hitting four World Series home runs, he's tied some of the records of baseball's all-time sluggers.

While Tenace was bashing his way to a new automobile for being named the Series' most valuable player, his fans were going wild. A member of the A's front office, after game number five, told me, "It couldn't be happening to a nicer guy." Only a Tenace kind of guy could say to a questioner about his chances of winning the MVP award, "If I do win the car the Reds would probably steal it." If you came in late, Cincinnati base runners stole 11 bases on him.

After what the A's did the last few days, the City of Oakland will never be the same.

WHILE THE A'S KEEP making us think about baseball, the 49ers are quickly trying to make us forget about football. The faces and names are the same that won the NFL's National Conference Western Division title the last two years. But the same bodies that were so dynamic in those days of the past look more like sleep walkers now. A pro football team does not win on Sunday because of the past. On the particular Sunday of yesterday, New Orleans was a better team than San Francisco and the 49ers were actually lucky to come out of it with a 20-20 tie.

It looked like a loser's dressing room as the players shuffled back and forth to the shower room, many with heads down, few with many words to say. There wasn't much to say, unless you wanted to dwell on the usually perfect Jim Johnson slipping and falling to the ground which allowed Saint wide receiver Dan Abramowicz catch of a 51-yard pass from Archie Manning, setting up a 11-yard field goal. Or maybe you wanted to find out what happened to the 49er zone defense when Dave Parks caught a 49-yard first quarter touchdown pass with Frank Nunley, a middle linebacker, chasing him.

"I WASN'T SUPPOSED to be in that zone," said Nunley the team captain, after the game. "I saw Parks zip past me and I looked up and saw that the zone had been left open, so I just started chasing him. I knew Manning was going to throw to him. I don't know who it was, but somebody must have missed an assignment."

Skip Vanderbundt, right side linebacker, was angry with himself and angry with the team. "I think they (New Orleans) should have won it. They played better than we did. We're doing too much computerized football. Maybe we do too much analyzing and not enough playing. We have to get to the basics. It is still reaction football, and we just are not playing."

Raiders' Win Streak Over Broncos Ends

OAKLAND (UPI) —One of Charley Johnson's greatest days as a pro and Floyd Little's first-ever pass completion have given the Denver Broncos their first win over the Oakland Raiders in 10 years.

Johnson, a 34-year-old journeyman quarterback acquired from Houston earlier this year by new Denver coach John Ralston, decimated the Oakland secondary for 361 aerial yards and two touchdowns in a stunning 30-23 upset Sunday before 53,551 disappointed Raider fans.

Little, who sat out the second half because of a minor foot injury, completed his first pass as a pro in the second period by taking a pitchout from Johnson and flipping a 35-yard scoring pass to wide receiver Jerry Simmons.

Little, last year's rushing champion of the American Football Conference, topped the Bronco rushers with 15 yards.

OVER SAN MARIN

Two Crucial Plays Give Redwood 14-6 Grid Win

By LEW CODDINGTON

San Marin and Redwood high schools ran off 109 plays from scrimmage Saturday afternoon, but two of them loom breathtakingly large in Redwood's 14-6 victory.

One was a 62-yard pass-and-run play from quarterback John Troppmann to halfback Mike Connor at the end of the first half which led to the only touchdown Redwood needed.

The other was a pass interception by the Giants' Daryl Edralin late in the third quarter, killing off San Marin's best bid to regain the lead.

The two teams played tough, equal football for the remaining 107 plays, but Redwood (5-1 on the year) emerged with the victory before about 1,000 fans at Novato High, and boosted its Marin County Athletic League record to 2-1. San Marin is 4-2 and 2-2.

"On the whole, the defense did an outstanding job, but we seemed to be mesmerized on that one play," said San Marin coach Bob Martin. "Instead of going to the ball and making the tackle, we stood around."

With Redwood trailing, 6-0, and only about 10 seconds left in the half, Troppmann passed to Connor, who shed a tackler and rambled about 40 yards to cap a 62-yard gain to San Marin's 10. The Mustang tackler was called for grabbing the facemask, and the ball was advanced to the five.

Time had run out, but since the half cannot end on a penalty, Redwood got another chance, and Troppmann threw to Katsumi Johnson for the score. Don Nelson's extra point gave the Giants a lead they never surrendered.

Early in the third period, after San Marin's defense held on a fourth-and-one play on its own 10, the Mustangs took 15 plays and eight minutes to drive 72 yards to Redwood's 18. Edralin, however, then picked off an underthrown pass and returned it 26 yards to end the threat.

Redwood's final touchdown came on a 22-yard halfback option pass from Edralin to Johnson with only 1:28 left in the game. San Marin's first

49ers Play 20-20 Tie With Saints

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Opposite coaching philosophies became apparent after a 20-20 tie Sunday between the San Francisco 49ers and New Orleans Saints.

With the Saints holding a three-point margin and 57 seconds left in the game, New Orleans Coach J. D. Roberts refused to settle for a field goal which would have given his team a 23-17 lead.

He gambled on a fourth-and-six sweep by quarterback Archie Manning and lost.

The 49ers took over and marched just far enough for Bruce Gossett to kick a 36-yard game-tieing field goal with just three seconds showing on the clock.

"(Tony) Linhart is capable of kicking it from 43 yards, but there's always the chance of a bad snap or blocked attempt which would have given the 49ers good field position," Roberts said in defending his strategy.

In the San Francisco dressing room, Dick Nolan of the 49ers said if he were put in the same

Knudson Gets Rest, Win In Kaiser Golf

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) — A two-week rest and the right environment proved just the tonic George Knudson needed to register his first golfing victory in 25 months.

Knudson, the good-natured, shaggy-haired Canadian from Toronto, won the $150,000 Kaiser International Open Sunday without a trace of the back problem that has plagued him off and on for a long time.

In fact, Knudson's back didn't bother him all week —thanks to the rest he took —and it was reflected in his play at Silverado where he shot a fine 17 under par 271, including a closing round 70, to win the Kaiser International Open by three strokes.

Knudson, who was looking for a high finish in the Kaiser so that he could be assured of winning an exempt spot for 1973, was unbeatable once he forged into the lead Saturday with a six under 66. Then, in the final round, played on a cool, overcast day, Knudson bagged his 70, which was enough to hold off strong finishes by Bobby Nichols and Hale Irwin.

Nichols bagged a course record 64 in the final round while Irwin, who tied the old mark with a 65 Saturday, came back into a closing 66.

Lost in the shuffle were two of the biggest names in golf Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer.

It was especially a disappointing week for Palmer, who hasn't won a tour title since the Greater Greensboro Open in 1971. Palmer started out with rounds of 66 and 67 but slipped to 75-74 and wound up in a tie at 282, 11 strokes off the pace.

Nicklaus, coming back after a five-week layoff, didn't do much better. The year's leading money winner with more than $283,000, shot 69-71-69-72 and was in a tie with J. C. Snead at 281.

But the big story at Napa this week was Knudson, who said he can't remember the last time he played as well.

"I guess you'd have to say taking a rest before coming here was the big difference,"

Oakland Fans Clog Airport, Runways

OAKLAND (AP) — Cheering and chanting "We're No. 1," an enthusiastic crowd of 25,000 Oakland Athletics fans clogged freeway approaches to Oakland International Airport and spilled onto the runways in a wild welcome to their World Series champions.

The chartered World Airways 707 jetliner carrying the team taxied to a remote section of the airfield Sunday night while airport security men and other law enforcement officials sought to control the massive tangle of people and cars.

"We put Oakland on the map," A's owner Charles O. Finley told his players aboard the plane. "We brought the San Francisco Bay Area its first world's sports championship."

At one point, Finley seized the airplane public address system and sang several verses of "Sugar in the Morning" before telling the A's how proud he was of their accomplishment.

The A's, who defeated Cincinnati 3-2 in the deciding seventh game of the series, arrived an hour and a half late at approximately 9 p.m. and after a four-hour flight from Cincinnati.

But many of the players slept for most of the flight after enjoying a victory dinner of steak and lamb chops, California wine, and butterscotch sundaes for dessert.

The A's were advised to travel the remaining mile to the terminal by bus because the jet could not be brought safely to the unloading ramp due to the size of the crowd.

Despite the delay, fans inside the terminal waited patiently in muggy heat for a glimpse of their returning heroes. Some searched for lost children and relatives separated in the exuberant stamped.

They roared as each player was introduced and made brief remarks.

Most players shyly raised their hands, grinned and echoed the crowd's chant of "We're No. 1."

But a few, swept up in the excitement, took the occasion to make champion-size predictions of the future.

"I think the World Series trophy is going to stay here the next two or three years," said pitcher Dave Hamilton.

And first baseman Mike Epstein said, "We'll keep this trophy for the next ten years."

Catcher Dave Duncan recited a poem to the throng, which ended, "We're world champions now, and as you can see, we're as happy as can be."

"Who thought another baseball team wouldn't work in the Bay Area," pitcher Bob Locker asked, referring to criticism that the A's shouldn't have transferred from Kansas City to Oakland because the National League Giants already had a

In Football: Bell Back In Terra Linda

By TOM THOMPSON

The Victory Bell is back at Terra Linda High School.

The Trojans smothered arch-rival San Rafael, 27-12, in a Marin County Athletic League game Saturday afternoon to regain the perpetual trophy representing football supremacy in the San Rafael School District. A surprisingly small crowd of about 1,800 watched the game.

Terra Linda took advantage of several Bulldog mistakes and unleashed a powerful passing attack to build up a 21-0 lead going into the fourth quarter.

The passing combination of quarterback Ken Kirby and halfback Paul Mooney compiled 127 yards to lead the Trojan attack.

Scoring opened early as Moo-

World Series: Bando's Beliefs

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Oakland captain Sal Bando might have summed up the 1972 World Series best of all Sunday after the A's had handed the Cincinnati Reds a 3-2 loss in the seventh and final game.

"I don't think we could have expected to beat a team like Cincinnati in less than seven games," said the Oakland third baseman, who knocked in the third and deciding run in the sixth inning with a long double to center field.

"We had them on the ropes but let them get away," continued Bando in the A's clubhouse. He did modify his statement a little, saying it might have been a different series if the A's had had slugging centerfielder Reggie Jackson and southpaw relief pitcher Darrold Knowles, both of whom were injured.

Oakland took the first two games in Cincinnati and held a 3-1 edge in games going into Friday's fifth game. But the Reds, trailing most of that contest, rallied for a 5-4 victory to bring the Series back here and then won an 8-1 "laugher" Saturday.

Prior to the start of tha Series, there was talk of a four-game Cincinnati sweep, and the Reds were listed as 7-5 favorites to take the title.

"I don't think Cincinnati was overconfident," Bando said. "They just didn't expect us to play as well as we do."

Williams Is A's Magician

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Gene Tenace may have waved the magic wand, but Manager Dick Williams was the head magician of the scrambling, scrapping and now world champion Oakland Athletics.

Every move Williams made, and he made a million of 'em, was as good as gold—even to taking "Most Valuable Player" Tenace out of the ball game for a pinchrunner only halfway through the A's' dramatic 3-2 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds in Sunday's seventh-game clincher.

Tenace had, indeed, done his job. In the first five games of the Series, he slammed four homers to put himself in the Series record book alongside the likes of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig. He didn't break those fellows' record in the seventh game—but he did drive in two of the three runs.

While Tenace was undeniably the seventh-game and Series hero, the dubious honor of "goat" had to be shared by centerfielder Bobby Tolan of the Reds and by Riverfront Stadium's elegant green carpet of artificial turf. Both helped the A's' score the runs that made an Athletic team world champion for the first time since 1930 when they resided in Philadelphia and played for Mr. Connie Mack.

The A's' first run was set up with one out in the first inning when Angel Mangual slammed a center field drive that Tolan misjudged, coming in and then going out and leaping and having the ball tip off his glove for an error that allowed Mangual to go all the way to third. One out later the "rug" got into the act.

Denis Menke was backing up at third to field what looked like a third-out hopper from Sal Bando when the ball struck the seam of the carpet around the dirt third base area and took a high bounce over his head for a single that scored Mangual.

The Reds finally matched that run in the fifth inning when Tony Perez doubled off A's' starter John Odom and one out later was moved to third by successive walks to Cesar Geronimo and David Concepcion, and then brought home when pinch-hitter Hal McRae hit a sacrifice fly off reliever Jim Hunter, the eventual winner.

But that very play could have been the turning point against the Reds. Cincy starter Jack Billingham had been mowing the A's down, retiring 10 straight batters at the point where Reds manager Sparky Anderson elected to have McRae hit for him.

When he brought in Pedro Borbon to replace Billingham, the game went out the window rapidly. Bert Campaneris singled to greet Pedro, moved to second on a sacrifice and third on an infield out. Enter Tenace again—with a line-drive double into the left field corner that let Campaneris trot in. Exit Tenace—for pinchrunner Al Lewis.

And then Bando ripped a line-drive to dead center field for another double that would have scored Jumbo the Elephant, let alone speedy Al Lewis. On that play Tolan went back, suffered a cramped hamstring muscle that later forced him from the game, and missed a desperate leap for the ball.

The Reds got one run back in the eighth, but that's all as Williams kept juggling.

Redskin Allen Lauds Team Win

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It was the Super Bowl in October for George Allen but Tom Landry still has his mind on the one in January.

Allen's Washington Redskins, sparked by an incredible individual performance by Larry Brown, rallied to defeat Landry's Dallas Cowboys 24-20 Sunday and take undisputed possession of first place in the National Football Conference Eastern Division.

"It was one of the finest games I ever watched," said Allen after Brown caught seven passes for 100 yards, rushed for 95 more and scored a pair of touchdowns.

Dallas surged a to 13-0 lead in the second quarter on Toni Fritsch's field goals of 13 and 12 yards and a 39-yard touchdown pass from Craig Morton to Ron Sellers. Sonny Jurgensen, who became only the third passer in National Football League history to surpass 30,000 yards during his career, threw a 19-yard pass to Brown to start the Washington scoring.

Walt Garrison's one-yard run boosted Dallas to a 20-7 lead but it was all Washington after that.

In other NFL action Sunday, Miami edged Buffalo 24-23, Atlanta nipped Green Bay 10-9, Los Angeles downed Cincinnati 15-12, the New York Jets squeezed past Baltimore 24-20, the New York Giants rallied to beat St. Louis 24-20, Philadelphia stunned Kansas City 21-20, Pittsburgh crushed New England 33-3, Detroit whipped San Diego 34-20, Denver surprised Oakland 30-23, San Francisco tied New Orleans 20-20 and Cleveland defeated Houston 23-17. Minnesota is at Chicago tonight.

Petaluma Wins Harrier Meet In San Ramon

Two Petaluma High School runners finished in the top ten Saturday to lead the Trojans to victory in the large-school varsity race in the San Ramon Invitational cross-country meet.

Dan Aldridge finished fourth in 8:40 and teammate Jon Sisler was sixth in 8:43 as Petaluma scored 98 points to 106 for runner-up Ygnacio Valley. San Rafael was 11th in the same class.

San Rafael's Brook Chestnut won the freshman large-school race in 9:26 and paced San Rafael's frosh to victory in that category. Tamalpais was fourth in the medium schools freshman-sophomore race.

Pete Demarais of Redwood High won the sophomore race in 11:18 as the Giants' sophs placed sixth in the Soquel Invitational near Santa Cruz. Redwood was third in the varsity and junior varsity races.

Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park Saturday won a non-league double dual meet, 27-28 from Montgomery of Santa Rosa and by forfeit from San Marin, which did not field a complete team.

Cross-Country Meet: Davis Beats Sonoma

University of California at Davis sent its number two cross country squad to Rohnert Park Saturday to face California State College, Sonoma and the Aggies won 16-47 to hand the Cossacks their third straight Far Western Conference loss.

Roger Williams was fifth place for Sonoma. He was timed in 28:35 over the five-mile course.

franchise across the bay in San Francisco.

And second baseman Ted Kubiak told the happy Oakland fans, "You're the greatest and we're the greatest."

Finley drew cheers when he raised the large gold World Series trophy bearing pennants representing major league teams, and drew boos when he held a Cincinnati Reds' cap aloft as if it were a hunter's pelt.

Many of the fans sported the A's colors, yellow and green and some carried green and yellow balloons or banners.

"Rain or Shine, We'll Beat Cincinnati All the Time;" "Tenace the Menace;" and "Big Game Hunter," read some of the signs.

A band entertaining the fans before the team arrived broke out with a classic Duke Ellington swing number from the early 1940s, "Take the A Train."

A clown named Popo accompanied by a man playing a steel drum led the crowd in singing, "Take Me Out to the Ball Game."

After the airport celebration, A's fans streamed into the city's Jack London Square, a collection of restaurants and night spots on the Oakland-Alameda Estuary leading into San Francisco Bay.

Cars dragged up and down the street, horns blaring and occupants hanging from windows, their arms raised high with one finger pointing to the sky to signify No. 1.

Police were present in strength but most officers appeared to share the jubilant mood of those celebrating.

Hundreds of young people roamed up and down sidewalks drinking beer and wine but causing little disturbance. Some pounded on car fenders and waved banners to demonstrate their enthusiasm.

Middle-aged fans clustered around pianos in bars, raising their voices in loud, and sometimes off-key, victory songs.

"It's a happy crowd," said Oakland police Sgt. Barry Wysling, "Kind of like New Year's Eve. They're waving banners, drinking drinks, cheering."

Still ahead was another outpouring of Oakland's enchantment with the team — a parade to city hall scheduled today with all the players riding in open convertibles.

and sixth games, Oakland manager Dick Williams shook up his lineup for the finale, benching first baseman Mike Epstein, who was 0-for-16 in the first six games, moving the amazing Gene Tenace from catcher to first base, and starting Dave Duncan behind the plate.

Williams said he discussed the move with Epstein before the game and Epstein went along with the move "as long as we win."

Tenace, who had crashed four home runs in the first six games, tying a Series record, continued his hot hitting, driving in the first Oakland run in the first inning on a bad-hop grounder to third which went for a single, and lashing a run-scoring double in the two-run Oakland sixth.

Tenace, who hit only five home runs during the regular season, was chosen the Most Valuable Player in the Series, for which he received a new car.

"Geno, you're going to have to learn how to drive that car," yelled pitcher Rollie Fingers.

Duncan, who appeared only as a pinchhitter in the first six games of the Series, nailed the Reds' speedy Joe Morgan in his only steal attempt. In games five and six, Morgan was the thorn in the side of the A's as he ran almost at will.

This time, however, the A's had John "Blue Moon" Odom on the mound, and Morgan couldn't get his usual big lead.

Odom, who said he felt he had "as good a move to first base as any righthander in baseball," fired to first baseman Tenace seven straight times in trying to keep Morgan close.

"I had to be as good as my word," Odom said. "I had said he (Morgan) wouldn't steal on me, he'd have to steal on the catcher."

Golfer Knudson's Kaiser Golf Win

Knudson said. "Also, the fact my wife and I stayed in a fairway condominium was important. That kept us away from the crowds and noise of a motel and enabled both of us to relax."

Nichols' spectacular 64, eight under par, included seven birds, an ace on the par-three, 197-yard seventh, and only one bogey. Knudson's card was a bit more erratic. He had seven birds, one bogey and two double bogies.

When Knudson double-bogied the 15th, his lead, which was five strokes at the start of the final round, slipped to just two over Nichols but he quickly righted himself with a 40-foot birdie putt on the 16th and that wrapped up things in a hurry.

Next, at 11 under 277, was Bobby Mitchell, while young Don Iverson stood all alone at 279. Jim Wiechers and Bud Allin followed at 280 and then came the Nicklaus and Palmer groups.

Marin Tars Slaughtered

College of Marin football coach Dick Read's worst fears were realized Saturday in Kentfield.

Following the Oct. 14 loss to a week squad from Solano College of Suisun City, Read predicted: "We've got to regroup or we're going to get beaten in the fifties by teams in this league," the Camino Norte Conference. Read's Tars were slaughtered, 62-12, Saturday by visiting De Anza College of Cupertino.

The Dons built a commanding 34-6 halftime lead and coasted in the final two periods, using substitutes throughout. "We couldn't handle their second team either," Tar coach Dick Read said.

Redwood's defense, led by tackle Doug Kern, ends Mark Ritcher and Doug Frager and middle linebacker Bob Fulton, held San Marin to 129 yards total offense. The defenders trapped the elusive Wright for 49 yards trying to pass, and made him scramble on other occasions.

Connor accumulated 64 yards in 14 rushes as Redwood gained 288 yards total.

position, he would have gone for the three-pointer.

Regardless of the opposing views, the game, dominated for the most part by the 49ers, ended with a closing flurry.

After trailing almost all the way, the Saints closed a 10-point gap in the second half on a pair of Linhart field goals after the San Francisco defense stopped drives on the four and 11 —and took the lead on a Manning to Dave Parks pass from 30 yards out with 1:54 left.

That gave New Orleans a 20-17 edge and, when the 49ers failed to mount a drive, the Saints took over and moved to the point where Manning was stopped by Cedrick Hardman on the big fourth down play.

Rancho Gridders Triumph

A confident Rancho Cotate High School of Rohnert Park football team scored a convincing 26-6 Sonoma County League football victory over visiting Cardinal Newman Saturday night and moved one step closer to its second straight undefeated season and league championship.

In other local high school grid action this weekend, Tomales ran its North Central League II record to 2-0 with a 42-0 pasting of visiting Upper Lake, and St. Vincent lost to visiting Point Arena, 28-18, to drop its NCL II mark to 0-2.

Rancho Cotate and Cardinal Newman played to a 6-6 tie in the first half, with the Cardinals scoring first on a 30-yard punt return by speedy Bernard Proctor.

"We knew we were going to win at half-time," Cougar coach Claude Brock commented.

Offensively in the second half, Dan Dettling was the standout for the Cougars. The 5-foot-8, 150-pound halfback netted 111-yards and one touchdown.

ney brought down a 60-yard pass the second time Terra Linda had the ball.

Scott Logan intercepted a Dave Steele pass to set up the Trojans' second touchdown late in the first half. A Kirby 14-yard toss to Jeff Offenbach was all Terra Linda needed to tally again. The Blue and Gold also scored on a safety early in the second quarter to set the half-time score at 15-0.

Terra Linda put the game out of reach less than two minutes into the third quarter. This time it was Logan's turn, running 13 yards to paydirt after being set up by a San Rafael fumble.

San Rafael made a valiant effort to get back in the game in the fourth quarter as Craig Saunders caught two scoring passes. Steele tossed the first to Saunders, a seven-yarder. And it was starting quarterback Lance Laughlin who threw for the second.

However, it wasn't enough. Any attempt by San Rafael to win was squashed with only 14 seconds left in the game, when Trojan defender Larry Chiaroni intercepted a Loughlin pass, and scampered 75 yards to end the scoring.

Drake Gridders Win Wild Contest, 27-18

By RON LENT

It was a spectator's delight.

Deep passing and long running abounded on a muddy Redwood High School field Saturday as Drake High outlegged Marin Catholic in a non-league football game, 27-18.

Some 950 enthusiastic fans watched Drake quarterback Tom MacAusland throw two touchdown passes in pacing the victory. But it was two stunning Marin Wildcat long touchdowns that enlivened the affair.

The first explosive score was provided by Wildcat running back Steve Lombardi, who broke up the middle and outran the secondary in covering 75 yards to paydirt. "He was just promoted from the junior varsity two weeks ago. He is a good, sound runner who works hard," explained Wildcat coach Bruno Banducci.

Banducci was also delighted with Marin's other long scoring play, an 80-yard pass from quarterback Ben Partee to swift receiver Paul Bartolini in the fourth period to close out the day's touchdown output.

But between the two dramatic Marin scores lies the story. Bob Franceschini's Pirates tallied once in both the first and second quarters and twice in the third to win.

Drake's onslaught began when standout receiver Ken Zepponi caught a 49-yard scoring pass from MacAusland to take the lead, 7-6. Zepponi caught a sideline pass, then dashed towards the middle of the field, eluding two Wildcat defenders enroute before crossing the goal line.

The two teams then swapped second quarter touchdown runs as Drake halfback Phil Wilkinson scored on a 16-yarder and Marin runner Rich Cervisi tallied on a 14-yarder.

Drake then broke open the 14-12 struggle in the third period with two touchdowns. Halfback Bob McCann capped a nine-play, 46-yard drive with a one-yard plunge, and end Dan Trimble accepted an 18-yard scoring toss from MacAusland.

BOWLING

San Rafael Trio Stars

At Greenbrae Lanes this week, Ed Henry, Penny Tauscher and Lu Sharp proved a home town court advantage is dispensable.

For examples, Henry rolled a 682, while Mesdames Tauscher and Sharp surpassed the 600 mark and were the only women in the county to do so this week. Mrs. Tauscher picked up a fine 543, and Mrs. Sharp collected a 605.

The gals' were outdone only by Henry's 682. The San Rafael plumber, competing Thursday night in the "911" League, had games of 223, 245 and 214.

New Safeway Store To Replace Purity In Northgate Center

A new Safeway Store will open in Northgate One Shopping Center, Terra Linda, about Nov. 8 in the old Purity Store building.

The last of the Purity Stores in Marin County closed last Saturday night and must vacate the premises by this weekend.

William Gross of Oakland, public relations director for Safeway, said Safeway will begin moving in about Oct. 30. "We plan some refurbishing, and our target date for opening is Wednesday, Nov. 8." He said the 20,000 square foot store is about the average size of other Safeway Stores. The manager and personnel for the new Safeway have not been assigned as yet.

The Terra Linda Purity, at 350 Las Gallinas Avenue, had been there for about 12 years. Robert Clark, manager of the store, and other spokesmen for Purity said they do not know whether Purity Stores will be returning to Marin.

Last June, the Purity Store management had a shakeup, with John R. Niven Jr., vice president of operations, splitting off to form the Northern California Supermarkets Inc. The Northern California Supermarkets bought 18 markets from Purity (Terra Linda Purity was not one of them) and pledged new and aggressive merchandizing programs. It is looking for new store locations in Northern California, but officials declined to say whether any of the sites are in Marin.

ACCESSORIES UNLIMITED, a handbag and fashion jewelry store, will open at Northgate Mall in Terra Linda about mid-November.

Heading the firm is President Marvin Baskin of San Rafael, who has been with the Le Gran Incorporated jewelry company for the past six years.

DAVID C. DEAN of San Anselmo has been promoted to vice president of the United California Bank's national division in San Francisco.

Dean joined United California Bank in 1960 in the Los Angeles office and also worked in the San Pedro and Canoga Park offices. He was appointed assistant vice president in 1966 and joined the San Francisco office this year.

Wines

FLOYD H. WINES of Petaluma has been appointed assistant manager-pricing for Santa Fe Railway in Chicago.

Wines will move to Chicago from San Francisco, where he has been assistant manager-pricing for the past four and one-half years. He entered Santa Fe service in 1948 and advanced through various positions in Oakland and San Francisco.

Wines and his family lived in San Anselmo until they moved to Petaluma two and one-half years ago.

LUCCHESI'S GOURMET Delicatessen at 920 Diablo Avenue in the Novato Fair Shopping Center, which opened last May, is expanding to provide for eight or nine tables for indoor dining.

Adolph J. Lucchesi, owner, said the expansion will provide indoor seating for about 25 or 28 persons to add to the four outdoor tables. Luchesi is also applying for an offsale beer and wine license, which he hopes to get in a month or two.

Lucchesi reports business is good, so good that he wants to sell his Italian Village Gourmet in San Francisco's North Beach and concentrate on his Novato delicatessen. He has owned the Italian Village Gourmet for more than 11 years.

MIKE'S BICYCLE Center in San Rafael at 1601 Fourth Street is now open six days a week instead of five, and for longer hours.

Owner Michael Smith announced he is now open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday from 9 to 5. He used to be closed on Sundays and Mondays.

Mike's Bicycle now accepts bicycles for trade-in, although the primary activity is sale of new bicycles and accessories, plus a complete repair service. The trade-ins will be reconditioned for sale as used bicycles. The principal brand at the shop is Schwinn, but it also carries lightweight imports.

DE MARTINI PHARMACY at 21 San Anselmo Avenue in San Anselmo will retain that name under the new owner, Aldo Parodi of Tiburon, who bought it this month.

Parodi, a pharmacist at the drug store for eight years, bought it from brothers Paul and James P. DeMartini, who owned it for the past 18 years.

Parodi has been in the pharmacy business for 12 years. He said he will continue the same services as in the past, including free deliveries and charge accounts.

Paul DeMartini, who lives in San Anselmo, has retired. His brother, James, runs two drug stores in Grass Valley.

FARRAR, HERRICK & Associates has moved its San Rafael office from Lincoln Avenue to the Northgate Industrial Park at 4340 Redwood Highway, suite 319. The company is a development corporation with separate divisions for development, construction, real estate syndication, and property management.

AL C. MIKNIS, who operated United Rent All Inc. in Novato at 6979 Redwood Highway, has given up the franchise after one year of operation.

Miknis, who lives in Novato, said he has not yet decided what he will do hereafter. Last month, another United Rent-All operator in San Anselmo quit in the same way. Eugene Pfeiffer, who ran the business at 101 San Anselmo Avenue, gave up his franchise after two years. The company rents homeowner equipment such as party goods, and home and garden tools and machinery.

OPEL'S NEW MANTA

Buick's 1973 Opel line will feature the new Manta Luxus, combining sport coupe styling with special ornamentation, colors, and interior trim. A manually-operated steel sun roof is optional with either regular or vinyl top. Opels are built by General Motors in Europe and distributed in the United States through Buick-Opel dealers and in Marin through Don Collins Buick of San Rafael.

1973 TORINO

Ford Division's Torino presents a new front appearance for 1973, highlighted by a wider grille and a larger impact-absorbing bumper. All Torino models feature new high-visibility, low-back front bench seats, larger rear brakes and an inside hood latch release. Local dealers are Lyons-Ryan Ford in San Rafael, J & B Ford Sales in Corte Madera, and Novato Auto Sales.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Bethlehem Should Recover, But Not To Level Of Purchase

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. In order for me to break even on my holdings of Bethlehem Steel (NYSE) it would have to go to $50. Do you think it ever will? — S.M.

A. The quickening pace of the economy should begin to filter through from heavy construction to the steel industry later this year. Because third-quarter volume was still sluggish, particularly for structural and plate steel, above-average demand is looked for in the next several quarters. About 45 per cent of Bethlehem's revenues come from these heavy steel products; 65 per cent from light steel lines such as: bars, sheets, pipes, tinplate, etc.

Hurricane Agnes caused some $10 million in flooding damage for Bethlehem. Half the 15 cents a share loss was absorbed in the second quarter, the remainder was taken in the third. Despite this, last-half earnings should compare favorably with year earlier figures. Full-year results could surpass the $3.14 reported in 1971 by a good margin. No price increases to cover wage hikes granted in August are projected before early 1973.

Q. What do you think of mortgage investment trusts for income? I have a diversified portfolio and can afford some risk. — C.W.

A. Two important developments, rising mortgage rates and a surge in construction, have very bullish implications for the mortgage trusts. For August, McGraw Hill reported a 16 per cent increase, year to year, for construction contracts. Since these companies must pay out 90 per cent of earnings as dividends to shareholders in order to qualify as investment trusts, the group is high on the list of attractive income producers. Larwin Mortgage Investors (NYSE), currently returning 9.5 per cent on the basis of the most recent quarterly dividend, is one of my selections in this category.

Vietnam Peace Speculation Boosts Stock Market

The Dow Jones industrial average was up 12.19 at 955.00 by 11 a.m. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index, a broader indicator, was ahead 1.12 at 110.36.

Advances led declines, 1,014 to 176, among the 1,398 issues crossing the tape. Volume amounted to around 3,110,000 shares during the first hour.

There were indications presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger's talks in Paris and Saigon may have been fruitful, and hopes for peace encouraged many investors, analysts said. The stock market has been sensitive to peace rumors the past several months.

Many of the glamor stocks and electronics and computers were big gainers in the rally. IBM, Burroughs, Texas Instruments, Motorola and Walt Disney all gained around 4 points.

FLOOD INSURANCE RATES RECEDE

If you think you can't afford flood insurance, chances are you're all wet. The federal government's National Flood Insurance Program is now offering this coverage on home, businesses and contents at sharply lowered rates.

For full details on this important protection — and the new lower rates — just give us a call. But don't delay. Now that the rates have receded, we expect to be flooded.
